

EXECUTE AIDE OF DE VALERA ASERIN REBEL

Erskine Childers Shot In Dublin For Possession Of Automatic Pistol

DEATH PENALTY SURPRISES

Belief Prevailed That Free State Would Hesitate In Doing Away With Leader

By Associated Press
Dublin — Erskine Childers, chief lieutenant of Eamon De Valera, was executed here Friday.

He was executed at 7 o'clock for having had an automatic pistol in his possession, it was announced in an official bulletin given out by the National army.

The brief army report states that Childers was tried by a military court at Port Obello barracks Dublin on Nov. 17, charged with being in possession without proper authority, of an automatic pistol when apprehended by national forces Nov. 10 at Aunmore house, Wicklow-co. The accused, the report adds was found guilty and sentenced to death and the finding and sentence being duly confirmed when the execution was carried out Friday morning.

While the method of execution was not officially described, it is believed it was by shooting.

The fate of Childers has been hanging in the balance for several days while court actions were being fought out over his military trial, but with the adverse finding by the master of the rolls Thursday on application for a stay of judgment the feeling that seemed to prevail in Dublin Thursday evening was that the next thing heard of Childers would be news of his execution.

This belief is thought likely to have inspired heavy attacks which were made on Nationalist army posts in Dublin throughout the night.

IMPORTANT FIGURE

London—Announcement of the execution in Dublin of Erskine Childers, leading lieutenant of Eamon DeValera, was received here shortly after noon Friday. It came as a surprise to England where it was believed the Free State authorities would hesitate to impose the penalty.

The execution removes the most important figure in the Republican movement in Ireland next to DeValera with whom Childers, a man of strong personality, is generally credited here with having had strong influence.

To Childers is ascribed perhaps the leading part in engineering the present armed revolt against the Free State and he was known as the military strategist who planned the operations. It was to Childers that Winston Churchill, former colonial secretary, recently referred in a speech as "that mischievous, murderous renegade that Englishman, who is inspired by an equal measure of hatred both for this island and for the one in which he now has taken up his abode."

SER'ED IN WAR

Childers was educated at Trinity college, Cambridge. He served in the European war as a lieutenant, commander of the royal navy volunteer reserve between January and May 1916 and won the distinguished service cross for his service with the Anti-Submarine forces. He was 52 years old.

Childers was the author of several books. Among them were the Framework of Home Rule, Volume V, of the Times History of the South African War, In The Ranks of the C. I.
V. and German Influence on British Cavalry.

If I Could Make Candles

BY GO-GETTER
Fancy candles — hand made — are in demand by particular people with nicely furnished homes.

Therefore, I would make candles to order to match the color scheme and decorative plan of the room.

I could market my candles direct to the home or through novelty stores, etc.
But I would advertise them — tell people why my candles were better than the ordinary. The quickest and most economical way of doing this would be with Post-Crescent Want Ads. — I could start my advertising for as little as 12 cents a day.
Think of it!

ANOTHER NEW BUILDING FOR COLLEGE-AVE

Gibson Tire Co. To Build Car Salesroom Near Congress Restaurant

Gibson Auto Exchange of Appleton and Oshkosh, operating the Ford Rental Co., Incorporated, and the Gibson Tire Co. of Appleton and Oshkosh, has purchased from the Commercial Hotel Co. the vacant lots between J. L. Wolf's shoe store and Congress restaurant, formerly the Commercial hotel. The deal was made by J. D. O'Leary.

The property has a frontage of 47 feet and it is the intention of the new owners to tear down the brick building in the rear and erect a new modern garage covering the entire premises.
The rear 80 feet will be built at once and in the event the front portion is not built until a few months later, depending on weather conditions, it will be provided with a temporary cement block curtain front.

The building will be constructed of brick, concrete and steel and will be one story high, but the walls will be so constructed that an additional story can be added at any time. It will have a high ornamental front to correspond with the building line of the avenue.

DEAL IN USED CARS

The new owners have been occupying the property for several months.
G. J. Schwab, local manager, said as soon as the new building is completed the Gibson Auto Exchange will make a specialty of buying and selling the higher class of used cars. The plan of erecting the rear portion first is to give the company a place to carry on business during the winter, he said.

Last spring the company purchased a lot at the corner of College-ave and Superior-st diagonally across the avenue from the new office building of the Aid Association for Lutherans with the intention of erecting a new garage on that corner, but because of the limited size of the lot decided to purchase a larger site.

BIG TURNOVER IN STATE LAW OFFICE ON JAN. 1

By Associated Press
Madison — The attorney general's office will have a considerable turnover on Jan. 1, 1923 when Herman J.
Ekern, newly elected attorney general is inaugurated into his new position.

At that time Attorney General William J. Morgan will retire from public life to take up the practice of law in Milwaukee. R. M. Hoyt, deputy attorney general, will be replaced by an appointee of Mr. Ekern. Mr.
Hoyt plans to return to Milwaukee to engage in law.

John F. Baker, assistant attorney general for the past seven years, has already advised Attorney General Morgan and Mr. Ekern, the attorney general-elect that he is to retire from the office Jan. 1 to reengage in law practice in Madison. His successor will be named by Mr. Ekern.

WINDS BLOW WATER OUT OF RIVER; SHIP GROUNDS

By Associated Press
Memphis, Mich. — The steamer Jupiter of the Interlake Transit company, inbound with a load of coal for the Central West Coal company, has been grounded in the river here and all attempts to extricate it have been fruitless. The shallowness of the river is blamed to the fact that westerly winds have drawn the water out of the river to such an extent that the level has been lowered over two feet.

Prof. Tiernan Gets Decree; Flays Spouse

South Bend, Ind. — John P. Tiernan, former Notre Dame professor, was granted a divorce from his wife, Augusta, together with the custody of their daughters, Irene and Mary, 5 and 4 years old, respectively, while his wife was given the custody of "Baby Billy," the repudiated child.
By Judge Chester Montgomery in Superior court No. 1 Friday afternoon.

"I admire you as a good provider, but I love Harry Poulin," is what she said to me," Tiernan told the court his wife had declared. "I asked her if she meant it, and she answered, 'I do.
Harry Poulin is my ideal and the father of my boy, and see day I'll marry him.'"

From that time, Oct. 2 last, until the present the estranged pair had not been living together, Tiernan said.
PROFESSOR BLAMES ON STAND
With flushed features and frequently hiding his face with his hands, Tiernan repeated on the witness stand many of the incidents that were brought out in the Tiernan-Poulin trial and told of almost daily "battles" with his wife coupled with her unfaithfulness toward him.

Mrs. Tiernan was pictured by her husband as being an impulsive, extravagant, and unfaithful wife, whose continued promises to reform amounted to nothing.

STILLMAN LOSES FIGHT

New York — James A. Stillman, New York banker Friday failed in his efforts to have the appellate division of the Supreme court set aside confirmation of the referee's report in his divorce case which refused his petition and upheld the legitimacy of Baby Guy.

ELECTED SHERIFF; MUST GIVE UP POST

Madison — A vacancy exists in the office of Sheriff of Dodge-co as a result of the November election, which cannot be lawfully filled by the Democratic opponent of Sheriff George Hall who was illegally reelected to the position, Attorney General William J.
Morgan, ruled Friday.

Sheriff Hall received a majority of the votes cast at the primary and at the general election, but owing to failure of the constitutional amendment permitting sheriffs to succeed themselves, to receive indorsement of the people, he cannot serve again. Mr.
Morgan advised the district attorney of Dodge-co.

Neither can his Democratic opponent who received the next highest vote, take over the office, the ruling established. Sheriff Hall is to hold office until the attorney general establishes whether the governor is to appoint his successor or a special election called to choose a county law enforcement officer.

NUMEROUS WOODSMEN INDICATE BIG CROP

Birchwood, Wis. — Woodsmen are numerous this year, judging from the fact that hundreds of men are passing through here each day to the camps in Sawyer and Price-co. Indications are that one of the greatest timber cuts in years will be made this winter. The soft and hard wood cuts will exceed the harvest of any years since the close of the war, according to officials. Some companies will have tremendous supplies of railway ties, excelsior bolts, cordwood, fence posts, telegraph poles and pulp wood.

START PIN TOURNEY TONIGHT

Kansas City, Mo. — The midwest will be awarded in the team events, two men, singles and individuals.

Many widely known pin artists will participate.

U. S. SUES FOR $20,000,000 AS WAR GRAFT

Cases Involve Construction Of Camps—Will Seek $55-000,000 More

By Associated Press
Washington — Legal action to recover more than $20,000,000, alleged to have been obtained fraudulently from the government in the construction of four army cantonments during the war, was instituted Friday by Attorney General Daugherty as the first formal step in a far reaching prosecution of those who held contracts for the building of war camps.

The four suits were filed simultaneously in United States District courts in four states and involve charges of fraud in connection with construction of camp Upton, N.
Y., Camp Jackson, Camp Sherman,
O., and Camp Funston, Kas. Other civil actions and possibly criminal prosecutions are to follow it was said at the department of justice involving a total of more than $75-000,000 and reaching into virtually every part of the country.

In each of the four cases the suit was filed against the "prime contractor" responsible for construction of the camps. The four defendants concerned and the amount the government seeks to recover from each are:
The Thompson-Starrett company, builders of Camp Jackson, $6,500,000;
the Hardaway Contracting company, builders of Camp Johnson, $6,500,000;
A. Bentley and Sons, builders of Camp
Sherman, $5,000,000 and the George
A. Fuller company, builders of Camp
Funston, $4,000,000.

The camp Upton suit was filed at the attorney general's direction at Brooklyn, N. Y., the Camp Jackson suit at Columbia, S. C., the Camp Sherman suit at Columbus, O., and the Camp Funston suit at Topeka, Kas.

It was indicated that similar actions would be brought at these places later against minor contracting firms who helped in the construction of the four camps and that should any criminal action be sought the evidence would be placed before the special war fraud grand jury now in session in District of Columbia.

START ASHLAND PAPER MILL AFTER IDLENESS

By Associated Press
Ashland — The Ashland paper mill has resumed operations after a shutdown of about five months. The owners expect to run the mill full force all winter and will possibly install much new machinery to be used in the manufacture of different paper products. The paper mill is getting part of its pulp material from Canada and part of the southern part of the state. This pulp is manufactured into fine tissue paper, napkins, table clothes, florist paper, fruit wrappers and many other kinds of paper products of the same nature. The opening of the mill will provide employment to a large crew.

This papermill was controlled by the Tuttle Press until about a month ago when it was sold to a firm of which M. C. Connors is president. A large part of the raw material used by the Appleton mill was obtained from its Ashland property but other sources now have been found, it was said.

Clemenceau Claws His Critics In U. S. Senate

CALL FOR DOGS TO GO ON TRAIL OF DYNAMITERS

Explosion Detroys Drainage Ditch Which Was Cause Of Farmer Feud

Police officers in Appleton have been asked where bloodhounds can be obtained to trail men who are alleged to have exploded a charge of dynamite in a drainage ditch along the line between farms owned by Peter Micheler and Theodore Barbian, town of Buchanan, three miles south of Kaukauna. The explosion shortly after 8 o'clock Thursday night dug an enormous hole on the two properties and destroyed a large section of the fence.
Micheler and Barbian have been in controversy for two years or more over the ditch, it is said. The explosion was of no benefit to either man, it is reported from Kaukauna.

According to information from Kaukauna, the drainage ditch is on Micheler's side of the line fence. Bar-bian charges it is reported, that Micheler has banked up the earth on his side of the ditch so that when the water is high and the ditch overflows, Barbian's land is inundated. The matter was taken into court where it was ruled that both men should dig ditches on their properties for a certain distance. The explosion is said to have occurred at the point where the two ditches were to begin.

Neither of the owners of the property nor Kaukauna police officers have any knowledge of the man who caused the explosion, it is reported.
The matter has been reported to Sheriff P. G. Schwartz who is conducting an investigation.

CATTLE BUYER SEEKS NEW TRIAL

Decorah, Pa. — Arguments on the motion for a new trial for B. F.
Kneeskern, land owner and cattle buyer, convicted last spring of the murder of Irvin VanBroeklin, in-connected with the slaying of Charles VanBroeklin and his wife in a little farm cabin near the town of Frankville last December, were continued in district court here before Judge H. E. Taylor.

The arguments are expected to require at least another day or two.

D. D. Murphy of Elkader, chief of counsel for the defense, laid stress on the defense claims that it was physically impossible for Elmer VanBroeklin, the state's star witness, and himself, to have been in the cabin door at the time of the slaying. He also objected to the jury's action in taking rulers and making measurements on a chart of the murder scene outside of the jury room while the case was in his hands.

HUNTER, LOST IN SWAMP, FREEZES HANDS AND FEET

By Associated Press
Ashland — Iver Erickson of Grand View was rescued Thursday by a party of searchers after he had been lost in the big Bison swamp for over 48 hours. Both hands and feet were badly frozen when he was found and he was suffering much from exposure.
Erickson became lost when he went out Tuesday with a party of hunters to look for game. Though he was located the following day, it was not until Thursday that members of the searching party succeeded in penetrating the swamp. Due to prompt medical aid which was given him, it is believed that both hands and feet can be saved.

TWO MILLION DOLLAR GRID GAMES SATURDAY

New York — Million dollar football games, two of them, will mark the climax Saturday of the eastern gridiron season. Money to be spent by the 76,000 persons expected to attend the Yale-Harvard event at New Haven and the 50,000 at the Army-Navy game at Philadelphia is estimated at $2,000,000. Tickets alone more than $600,000 will be spent. Car fare, meals, flowers, theater parties, clothes and other incidentals will cost more than the tickets.

NAME MEDJID CHIEF CALIPH OF MUSLEMS

Prince Vested With Supreme Authority—Replaces Exiled Sultan

By Associated Press
Constantinople — Prince Abdul Medjid Effendi became supreme caliph of the Moslems Friday. He was invested with the sacred mantle of the Prophet Mohammed in the famous Topcapou palace, overlooking the golden horn with a lavishness of pomp and ceremony reminiscent of the days of his imperial predecessors.

The most picturesque features of the ceremonies which were attended by enormous crowds of national Turks, were the handing over to the Caliph by a delegation from Ankara of the beard of the prophet and bestowal upon him of the prophet's sword and green bag. The bag signifies the power of the caliph to declare holy war.

MAKE BIG DEMANDS

Lausanne — Both Turkey and Bulgaria made greater demands than had been anticipated at the meeting Friday of the sub-commission appointed by the Near East conference to study and report upon the question of the Thracian frontiers and a Bulgarian outlet to the Aegean sea.

In the reference to the proposal for a demilitarized zone along the frontier between eastern and western Thrace, the spokesmen for Turkey demanded effective guarantees. They asked that these guarantees apply to the boundary between eastern Thrace and Bulgaria which the latter country asks be militarized.

As such guarantees would mean a super step toward an effective peace, according to the Turkish delegates, the powers will find difficulty in refusing them.

TO HOLD SINGLE PARLEY

The plan to hold two distinct conferences on the Near Eastern question, one for reestablishing peace between Turkey and Greece, and between the Allies and Turkey, and the second to fix the status of the Straits of the Dardanelles, has been abandoned, it was stated and the problem of the straits has been merged into the general conference.

Clemenceau Forces International Issues On White House— Really Seeking Triple Alliance To Protect France

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1922, by the Post Pub. Co.
Washington — The Clemenceau visit to America is beginning to take on a much more serious aspect than the mere lecture trip of a distinguished statesman.

Unofficial, informal, absolutely disconnected from the government of France and "without a mission" in the formal sense, nevertheless the confessed effort of the former premier of France to influence American public opinion has drawn fire from those in the United States senate who fear America may be influenced by what
M. Clemenceau writes or says.

The United States government, meaning President Harding and Secretary Hughes who are charged with the responsibility of foreign policy, faces an awkward and delicate situation. To reply to M. Clemenceau means taking official cognizance of what he says and reviving a controversy which the administration here is particularly anxious to avoid especially since the press of domestic questions is making antagonisms and factions enough.

WILL BE ANSWERED

But M. Clemenceau's utterances and writings will not go unanswered. He has his defenders as well as opponents in this country and whatever may be the final judgment of the American people as to the concrete questions raised by the former French premier, he has already accomplished one object—he has stirred up foreign questions anew and focussed attention on them. There have been signs that European matters would be forced to the front anyhow by that group of international cooperationists in Republican and Democratic parties who believe the plight of Europe is inseparably interwoven in the prospect of America, and the future of our export trade, particularly agricultural products.

Hints have been coming from the White House that the calling of an economic conference of all the principal powers was under consideration.

DEMOCRATS GO OUT OF PARTY TO GET LEADER

Nelson, Republican, Leads Democratic Fight On Harding's Ship Subsidy Bill

Washington — Widely conflicting views as to the wisdom of enacting the administration shipping bill were presented to the house Friday by Republican and Democratic speakers.
Representative Lehigh, New Jersey, a Republican member of the merchant marine committee which framed it, declared the country would not have a merchant marine unless the plan proposed in the pending bill was adopted.

The house was convened an hour earlier to give more time for members desiring to speak during the remaining two days of general debate on the administration shipping bill before the measure is laid before the house for amendment for three days beginning Monday.

The Democrats furnished a surprise in selecting a Republican, John A.
Nelson of Wisconsin, to lead off for the opposition in a speech in which he warned Republican leaders that if they would "hold the party together they must go out to the masses and not to the ship profiteers." Representative Bankhead of Alabama, Democratic member of the merchant marine committee following Mr. Nelson, characterized the bill as a "monstrous bill" and asserted it meant that corporens operating ships for their own benefit such as the Standard Oil company and the United Fruit company would be "handed four or five million dollars annually out of the treasury just for the privilege of hauling their own stuff."

"The answer was that there was only one established case of a Senegalese having mistreated a German woman. He was cashiered and sentenced by a military tribunal."

The reason black troops were sent into the occupation zone at first, Clemenceau said, was to provide a few months of home leave for the white troops that had stood the line four years until America could come, and were rather exhausted.
"We couldn't forego," he said,

WAR PREMIER DENIES CHARGE OF MILITARISM

Challenges Hitchcock And Borah
To Prove He Is Unduly Harsh On Germans

Boston — The "Tiger of France" lashed back at his senate critics Friday in his first American interview, granted to the Associated Press, replying particularly to the criticisms of Senators Hitchcock and Borah.

"Senator Hitchcock calls me a militar-ist," Clemenceau said. "Well, I am glad to tell Mr. Hitchcock he is in the wrong, owing to the vote for only a few more days. When he is free, I dare him to go to France and learn the facts."

Answering Senator Hitchcock's demand that he explain why France insisted on using black troops in her army of occupation, the "Tiger" declared that Hitchcock had been misled by German propaganda and that today there was not a single black soldier in Germany territory.

ANSWERS BORAH

To Senator Borah's recent assertion that Clemenceau was primarily responsible for conditions in Europe because of great influence in the drafting of the Versailles treaty the aged statesman declared his situation was "particularly distressing" since in France he had been most bitterly criticized "for having asked from the Germans less than I ought to."

When he was told that some of the senators at Washington had said they were not able to understand clearly from his speeches just what he wanted in America, the "Tiger" said with a gleam in his eyes, that he thought they would know after his address Friday afternoon in Tremont Temple.

VOLSTEAD ACT UP AGAIN AT MEETING OF COUNTY BOARD

Right To Submit Resolution Second Time Forms Basis Of Debate

Another resolution relating to the Volstead act somewhat similar to the one tabled last week and which one of the supervisors clumped was the old one in substance but in different wording was introduced by Supervisor Schwimmer, who presented the other just before the county board adjourned Friday noon. It was drawing the fire of both the supporters and opponents when a recess was taken.

It was the opinion of some of the members that inasmuch as the resolution was disposed of last week it could not come up for reconsideration unless notice was given within 24 hours after such consideration. Supervisor Schultz said he gave such notice within the required time and favored consideration of the new resolution which some of the supervisors maintained was out of place before the board.

Beware Of Uncle Sam If You Want Picture Of P. O.

No bashful maiden is as shy of a camera as the United States government. It veils its inner possessions more secretly than does an inmate of a sultan's harem hide her face.

If you have admired the interior of Appleton postoffice and your admiration has inspired you with a determination to take a picture of it, your Uncle Sam's advice is—don't. Just you be intercepted by the overzealous keeper of the portals at the point of a pistol.

It is far more healthier to take only a mental picture of it and reproducing it later with a little paint and brush. Yet it is a question if you are safe then and if it is not wiser merely to keep it shrouded in your mind and then forget all about it.

The government is as jealous of the interior of its buildings as of its fortresses of defense. That's why it has laid down its edict, barring professional and amateur alike from taking any photograph of it.

"The intent of preventing bandits from using the photographs to advance their schemes had something to do with the issue of this government order two years ago," explained H. J. French, assistant postmaster. "The government also wished in general to put a stop to the admission of outsiders to the interior of postoffices. Years ago it was quite common for commercial photographers to come in and take a photograph of the office and of the employees and then return to sell the pictures.

WILL STOP SWINDLING
If a resolution presented by the agricultural committee, Supervisors Beck, Hutchinson and Hodgins is adopted, a campaign of education will be conducted in the county schools under direction of the county superintendent of schools against the buying of get rich quick stocks through which millions of dollars belonging to Outagamie county residents have been squandered. The committee said The county agent to be appointed will be instructed also to carry on a similar campaign among the people when he comes in contact. The resolution was laid over until Saturday to make it possible for the committee to widen the scope of the measure.

The salary of the superintendent of the workhouse, John Wagner was increased from $1,900 to $2,000. The Citizens National bank, being the highest bidder on daily balances of county funds, was made county depository. The reports of the committee on putting on printing, insurance and constable accounts were adopted and a petition to have trunk line 15 between Appleton and Kaukauna changed from the north side of Fox river to the south side was referred to the county-state road and bridge committee.

DISCHARGE AUTO SUIT JURY; COULDN'T AGREE

After being out from 10:45 Friday morning until 4:30 in the afternoon, the jury trying the case of E. H. Ramm, New London garage man, vs. Carl Kamke, a farmer, to recover payment of a note of $275 for a Ford truck, was discharged by Judge A. M. Spencer in municipal court. When the foreman was asked if it were possible that a verdict would be returned, he said it did not seem possible. It is rumored that the jurors stood 11 to 1 for acquittal.

SULPHUR CLEARS ROUGH, RED SKIN

Face, Neck and Arms Easily Made Smooth, Says Specialist

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying a little Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties this sulphur preparation begins at once to soothe irritated skin and heal eruptions such as rash, pimples and ring worm. It seldom fails to remove the tortures of itching, and you do not have to wait for relief from embarrassment. Improvement quickly shows. Sufferers from skin trouble should obtain a small jar of Rowles' Mentho-Sulphur from any good drug gist and use it like cold cream.

DR. STEFFEN IS DEAD AT ANTIGO

Native Of Hortonville And Graduate Of Lawrence Dies Suddenly

Dr. I. D. Steffen, native of Hortonville and one of the most prominent men in Antigo, died in that city Wednesday evening from acute diabetes. He collapsed Wednesday morning and did not regain consciousness before death. Dr. Steffen had been in ill health about two weeks and the day before he died an examination revealed acute diabetes. He was preparing to seek expert treatment when he was stricken.

Dr. Steffen was born in Hortonville in 1855. He graduated from Lawrence college in 1879 and then returned to Hortonville where he entered a doctor's office, remaining there until he was married at Rush Medical college. Immediately after graduation he established his practice in Antigo in 1887, two years after that city was incorporated. He was active until just a few months ago when his son, Dr. Lyman A. Steffen, took over a large portion of the practice. Dr. Steffen was a surgeon for the Northwestern road for 30 years.

He served as mayor of Antigo for

PROPOSED TAX ON AUTOS PUTS ROAD COSTS ON OWNERS

County Boards Ask New Law With Graduated Scale Instead Of License

The outstanding feature of the highway bill proposed for the next legislature by the Wisconsin Association of County Boards is that it provides for making the motor vehicle pay a larger share of the cost of road building and relieves the general property tax to that extent. The main proposals are:

Elimination of state general property tax to meet the federal aid in the sum of $2,200,000; a change in the present law whereby the counties are required to pay one-third the cost of federal aid construction, under which plan federal roads would be built with federal and state funds, thus relieving the counties of $2,200,000; elimination of county taxes in the sum of $1,700,000 now raised for maintenance.

To care for these different road activities, there would be substituted the following taxes: The present flat rate of a $10 license on all motor vehicles would be changed to make it a graduated license on the basis of 50 cents per hundredweight of the car. This would mean that a Ford car would pay $7 and the license would increase with the weight. The personal property tax on motor vehicles would be replaced with a 2-per cent valuation tax. A sliding scale of values would be provided to allow for yearly depreciation. Heavy motor trucks would pay $1 per hundredweight on the vehicle and load. A tax of 2 cents a gallon on gasoline, with the provision of a refund where the gasoline is used for manufacturing, agricultural, or other purposes other than highway transportation would be fixed.

Wisconsin's road bill this year will amount to $37,000,000, and only $4,000,000 is paid by motor vehicles. The committee held that it was unquitable that motorists who receive the most benefit of the improved roads should pay so small a portion of the highway construction and maintenance.

RADIO PATTEN

Vacuum tubes, regeneration and other developments in radio that were unknown before the war, have still to attain the wonders reached by the lowly crystal receiving set.

That is the conclusion made by old-timers who recall the days when, with only a galena or carborundum crystal, they were able to listen in on transmitting stations 1000 to 1500 miles away.

But the curious fact is that these stations, which used to come in so easily in those good old days, cannot be heard except with the modern vacuum tube regenerative set. What the cause of this failure of the crystal detector is, no one can tell.

About eight or ten years ago, amateurs in New York were able to hear NAX at Panama, or NAX at Guantanamo clearly, and all they had was an ordinary crystal receiver. Now, with the same crystal set, they could not obtain a spark from either of these stations. Only nearly or power stations a few hundred miles away can be received with a crystal set.

However, even a modern highly developed set has difficulty in tuning in signals from the stations at Panama or Guantanamo. Radio engineers have been trying to learn the cause of this, but they have not yet succeeded. On a cool night, with the use of a vacuum tube detector and two stages of amplification, an amateur may be able to hear these stations. Such a set would cost him about $200.

The simple crystal set that caught the signals of the same stations ten years ago, cost the amateur only about $25.

AUDION PATENT RELEASED

By Lee De Forest
There is no room in the United States for political interference by foreign nations, and in the radio field, Tuesday, Nov. 7, should go down in history as a new day of independence for radio amateurs, for the radio trade, and for the American public in general. This day marked the expiration of the patent on the Fleming valve—a British device which was used by its owners not only to ignore the very wonderful works of Thomas A. Edison, but to deny another American inventor the right to make use of his own invention. The whole world recognizes what the Edison means to human progress and civilization.

Joseph G. Smyth of Brooklyn, N. Y., has been awarded first prize in a unique radio championship contest in Boston, recently. He proved best in cipher code and straight press transmission, but his best record was made when he averaged 35 words a minute without an error in a naming contest, that is, receiving through interference.

DE PERE YOUTH AWAITS AUTO DEATH TRIAL IN JAIL

Leonard Coenen of DePere, having waived preliminary examination on the charge of striking Mrs. John B. Engles of Green Bay with an automobile and causing her death through negligent driving, has been bound over by Judge N. J. Monahan in municipal court at Green Bay for trial on Nov. 28 under $2,000 bonds. He was unable to raise the bond so will await trial in jail.

Charges of manslaughter are expected to be filed by the district attorney against Coenen. The penalty that may be imposed for fourth degree manslaughter is from one to two years in the penitentiary, or a $1,000 fine or both. One year in the county jail also may be given, it is said.

Alcohol Simplest, Best Way To Prevent Radiator Of Auto From Freezing

Clogging Of Tubes Easily Done With Use Of Improper Liquids Garage Men Say—Draining Is Laborious—And Uncertain

Now that the "frost is on the bumper and the Ford is in the shop," it might be wise to lay aside that valuable booklet on the Art of Flivvering for a few moments and bury one's nose in the Automobile Guide to Health.

As in the case of humans, to the automobile no time is so favorable in which to catch a cold as in the fall or early winter. Any cold, snappy motorist is well apt to catch any automobile owner napping these days. Nor is the motorist immune who has decided to winter the car in storage.

A conversation between two professional automobilists in a downtown garage this week revealed that their Lizzies had been affected by something or other as a result of a severe chill. They were debating as to just the proper kind of soothing syrup to administer in the future. A said he was through with this patent radiator compound stuff for all time, as it had eaten holes through the copper and brass of the radiator on his car. B said he was ready to try anything once and heard that glycerine was the proper medicine to use.

GIVES "DO'S" AND "DON'TS"
The garage which serves as a kind of bank of deposit for every form of complaint had collected a few "do's" and "don'ts" on the subject from past mistakes of its customers; hence the owner began to open his supply of advice.

"Alcohol," he said, "is the only reliable freeze preventive to be obtained. It is also the least harmful. Put a little alcohol into the water of the radiator and, depending upon how you use your car, it will last a long time. But don't expect that it will do as a hydrometer, and the alcoholic content of the radiator should be tested often. Alcohol, you know, evaporates much faster in warm weather than water. Be sure there is no leak in the radiator, however."

Another radiator repairman advised that if a little glycerine be mixed with the alcohol, it will do much to prevent the alcohol from evaporating so rapidly. The alcohol used in repair shops is usually already prepared and mixed with the glycerine.

HASTE MAKES WASTE

"I have known a few drivers," said a third mechanic, "who were in such a hurry to get started that they rushed into the house and took the warm dishwater that happened to be on the stove. It didn't seem to hurt the radiator at the time, but the soap in the water began to cake and to interfere with the cooling surface. Other people make the mistake of putting oil into the water which also produces a thick coat. Neither will wash off like alcohol and glycerine. Some people use kerosene, but this is rather dangerous."

If no alcohol is used, garagemen say, it is necessary to drain out the radiator thoroughly each night. In draining a radiator, one should make sure that every bit of water has been removed from the tubes.

DRAIN CAREFULLY

"Some motorists simply open the cocks to let the water out and then leave it without paying further attention to it," said one dealer. "Yet sometimes the water begins to clog and freezes in spite of what was done. One should stay at the machine until all is drained out, and after that start the engine to draw out the last drops in the tubes."

If a radiator is once frozen solid, it is likely to be ruined beyond repair. A tubular radiator will not stand the frost that a honeycomb radiator will.

COLLEGE HOLDS FIRST ORATORY EVENT FRIDAY

The interclass oratorical contest of Lawrence college will take place in the old chapel on Friday evening. Two representatives from each of the upper classes will take part and the winner will represent Lawrence in the intercollegiate contests. Each class supports its orators by putting on songs, yells and stunts before and after the competition. This is the only public speaking activity at Lawrence college which is open to women.

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color, Gloss and Attractiveness

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge, or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant, adv.

APPLETON'S 1921 PER CAPITA TAX SECOND HIGHEST

Commission's Report Shows Appleton Taxes Were Higher Than In Milwaukee

Appleton in 1921 paid the second highest per capita tax of all larger cities in Wisconsin, according to a tabulation of assessed valuation, general property taxes and tax rates based on local and true value assessments, issued by the Wisconsin tax commission for cities of the state for the year 1921.

The amount collected per capita of population in the 18 largest cities of the state, which includes all state, county and school taxes as well as for cities proper is as follows:

Madison, $50.40; Appleton, $44.03; Milwaukee, $43.49; Kenosha, $42.08; Janesville, $42.03; Wausau, $40.04; Fond du Lac, $35.04; Green Bay, $37.25; Ashland, $36.89; Oshkosh, $36.06; LaCrosse, $35.85; Eau Claire, $35.36; Racine, $34.77; Manitowoc, $34.58; Beloit, $33.97; Sheboygan, $32.59; Superior, $29.69.

The assessed valuation varies considerably in the different cities as compared with the true value as fixed by the state tax commissioner. The following table shows the percentage of assessed valuation made by the local assessors for taxing purposes as compared with the real value.

Ashland, 110 per cent; LaCrosse, 104; Green Bay, 99; Manitowoc, 98; Fond du Lac, 97; Oshkosh, 97; Madison, 94; Janesville, 94; Milwaukee, 92; Marinette, 89; Sheboygan, 88; Appleton, 88; Beloit, 85; Eau Claire, 84; Kenosha, 83; Racine, 81; Wausau, 78; Superior, 73.

FONDY ANXIOUS TO SAVE FISH FROM POLLUTION

Fond du Lac chapter of the Isaac Walton league is enthusiastically supporting the movement of the state board of health asking for an appropriation of $17,000 for sanitary engineering work that is to include protection of fish from pollution of streams and lakes.

Pollution of Lake Winnebago and Fox river has furnished a topic for discussion among the members of the league for some time. So serious has the pollution become in the vicinity of Fond du Lac, it is stated, that whole schools of small fish swimming in certain parts of the lake near that city are poisoned and speedily die. Near the mouth of the river, pollution is so serious, it is said, that even crawfish cannot be kept alive in the "live boxes."

Right To Submit Resolution Second Time Forms Basis Of Debate

Another resolution relating to the Volstead act somewhat similar to the one tabled last week and which one of the supervisors claimed was the old one in substance but in different wording was introduced by Supervisor Schwimmer, who presented the other just before the county board adjourned Friday noon. It was drawn up by the fire of both the supporters and opponents when a recess was taken.

It was the opinion of some of the members that inasmuch as the resolution was disposed of last week, it could not come up for reconsideration unless notice was given within 24 hours after such consideration. Supervisor Schultz said he gave such notice within the required time and favored consideration of the new resolution which some of the supervisors maintained was out of place before the board.

Beware Of Uncle Sam. If You Want Picture Of P. O.

No bashful maiden is as shy of a camera as the United States government. It veils its inner possessions more secretively than does an inmate of a sultan's harem hide her face.

If you have admired the interior of Appleton postoffice and if your admiration has inspired you with a determination to take a picture of it, your Uncle Sam's advice is—don't, lest you be intercepted by the overzealous keeper of the portals at the point of a pistol.

It is far more healthier to take only a mental picture of it and reproducing it later with a little paint and brush. Yet it is a question if you are safe then and if it is not wiser merely to keep it shrouded in your mind and then forget all about it.

The government is as jealous of the interior of its buildings as of its fortresses of defense. That's why it has laid down its edict, barring professionals and amateurs alike from taking any photograph of it. "The intent of preventing handouts from using the photographs to advance their schemes had something to do with the issue of this government order two years ago," explained H. J. Frenk, assistant postmaster. "The government also wished in general to put a stop to the admission of outsiders to the interior of postoffices. Years ago it was quite common for commercial photographers to come in and take a photograph of the office and of the employees and then return to sell the pictures."

He collapsed Wednesday morning and did not regain consciousness before death. Dr. Steffen had been in ill health about two weeks and the day before he died an examination revealed acute diabetes. He was preparing to seek expert treatment when he was stricken.

Dr. Steffen was born in Hortonville in 1855. He graduated from Lawrence college in 1879 and then returned to Hortonville where he entered a doctor's office, remaining there until he was married at Rush Medical college. Immediately after graduation he established his practice in Antigo in 1887, two years after that city was incorporated. He was active until just a few months ago when his son, Dr. Lyman A. Steffen, took over a large portion of the practice. Dr. Steffen was a surgeon for the Northwestern road for 30 years.

He served as mayor of Antigo for

WAGNER GIVES DINNER AT WORKHOUSE FOR OFFICIALS

Judge A. M. Spencer of the municipal court, Fred V. Heinemann, district attorney, and 26 members of the county board of supervisors made their annual inspection of the county workhouse Thursday afternoon. While there they were guests of John Wagner, superintendent, at supper. The evening was spent socially.

BREITRICK ESTATE PAYS $267 INHERITANCE TAX

The largest inheritance tax paid to the county treasurer within the last few weeks was that of Karl Breitrick, amounting to $267.35 paid on the estate of Charles Breitrick. Other taxes paid include the following: H. W. Russell estate of William C. Perry $878. John Sullivan estate of Ellen Sullivan, $63.38. John Sullivan, estate of Ellen Sullivan, $401. Clara Nelson, estate of Harrie D. Alexander $86.57.

floor which is to be fitted up as a nursery room for men and women at an expense not to exceed $1,500.

WILL STOP SWINDLING
If a resolution presented by the agricultural committee, Supervisors Beck, Hutchinson and Hodgins is adopted, a campaign of education will be conducted in the county schools under direction of the county superintendent of schools against the buying of getting quick stocks through which millions of dollars belonging to Outagamie residents have been squandered, the committee said. The county agent to be appointed will be instructed also to carry on a similar campaign among the people with whom he comes in contact. The resolution was laid over until Saturday to make it possible for the committee to widen the scope of the measure.

The salary of the superintendent of the workhouse John Wagner was increased from $1,500 to $2,000. The highest bidders on daily balances of county funds was made county deposits. The reports of the committee on printing, insane accounts and constable accounts were adopted. A petition to have trunk line 18 between Appleton and Kaukauna changed from the north side of Fox river to the south side was referred to the county-state road and bridge committee.

DISCHARGE AUTO SUIT JURY; COULDN'T AGREE

After being out from 10:45 Friday morning until 4:30 in the afternoon, the jury trying the case of E. H. Ramon, New London garage man, vs. Carl Kamke, a farmer, to recover payment of a note of $275 for a Ford truck, was discharged by Judge A. M. Spencer in municipal court. When the foreman was asked if it were possible that a verdict would be returned, he said it did not seem possible. It is rumored that the jurors stood 11 to 1 for acquittal.

SULPHUR CLEARS ROUGH, RED SKIN

Face, Neck and Arms Easily Made Smooth, Says Specialist

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying a little Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation begins at once to soothe irritated skin and heal eruptions such as rash, pimples and ring worm. It seldom fails to remove the torment of itching and disfigurement, and you do not have to wait for relief from embarrassment. Improvement quickly shows. Sufferers from skin trouble should obtain a small jar of Rowles' Mentho-Sulphur from any good drug gist and use it like cold cream.

PROPOSED TAX ON AUTOS PUTS ROAD COSTS ON OWNERS

County Boards Ask New Law With Graduated Scale Instead Of License

The outstanding feature of the highway bill proposed for the next legislature by the Wisconsin Association of County Boards is that it provides for making the motor vehicle pay a larger share of the cost of road building and relieves the general property tax to that extent. The main proposals are:

Elimination of state general property tax to meet the federal aid in the sum of $2,200,000; a change in the present law whereby the counties are required to pay one-third the cost of federal aid construction, under which plan federal roads would be built with federal and state funds, thus relieving the counties of $2,200,000; elimination of county taxes in the sum of $1,000,000 now raised for maintenance.

To care for these different road activities, there would be substituted the following taxes: The present flat rate of a $10 license on all motor vehicles would be changed to make it a graduated license on the basis of 50 cents per hundredweight of the car. This would mean that a Ford car would pay $7 and the license would increase with the weight. The personal property tax on motor vehicles would be replaced with a 2-per-cent valuation tax. A sliding scale of values would be provided to allow for yearly depreciation. Heavy motor trucks would pay $1 per hundredweight on the vehicle and load. A tax of 2 cents a gallon on gasoline, with the provision of a refund where the gasoline is used for manufacturing, agricultural, or other purposes other than highway transportation would be fixed.

Wisconsin's road bill this year will amount to $37,000,000, and only $4,000,000 is paid by motor vehicles. The committee held that it was unquitable that motorists who receive the most benefit of the improved roads should pay so small a portion of the highway construction and maintenance.

RADIO PATTERN

Vacuum tubes, regeneration and other developments in radio that were unknown before the war, have still to attain the wonders reached by the lowly crystal receiving set.

That is the conclusion made by old-timers who recall the days when, with only a galena or carborundum crystal, they were able to listen in on transmitting stations 1000 to 1500 miles away.

But the curious fact is that these stations, which used to come so easily in those good old days, cannot be heard except with the modern vacuum tube regenerative set. What the cause of this failure of the crystal detector is, no one can tell.

About eight or ten years ago, amateurs in New York were able to hear NAX at Panama, or NAU at Guantanamo clearly, and all they had was an ordinary crystal receiver. Now, with the same crystal set, they could not obtain a spark from either of these stations. Only nearby or powerful stations a few hundred miles away can be received with a crystal set.

However, even a modern highly developed set has difficulty in tuning in signals from the stations at Panama or Guantanamo. Radio engineers have been trying to learn the cause of this, but they have not yet succeeded. On a cool night, with the use of a vacuum tube detector and two stages of amplification, an amateur may be able to hear these stations. Such a set would cost him about $200.

The simple crystal set that caught the signals of the same stations ten years ago, cost the amateur only about $25.

AUDION PATENT RELEASED

By Lee De Forest

There is no room in the United States for political interference by foreign nations, and in the radio field, Tuesday, Nov. 7, should go down in history as a new day of independence for radio amateurs, for the radio trade, and for the American public in general. This day marked the expiration of the patent on the Fleming valve.

A British device which was used by its owners not only to ignore the very wonderful work of Thomas A. Edison, but to deny another American inventor the right to make use of his own invention. The whole world recognizes what the Edison means to human progress and civilization.

WINS RADIO PRIZE

Joseph G. Smyth of Brooklyn, N. Y., has been awarded first prize in a unique radio championship contest in Boston, recently. He proved best in cipher code and straight press transmission, but his best record was made when he averaged 35 words a minute without an error in a jamming contest, that is, receiving through interference.

DE PERE YOUTH AWAITS AUTO DEATH TRIAL IN JAIL

Leonard Coenen of DePere, having waived preliminary examination on the charge of striking Mrs. John B. Engles of Green Bay with an automobile and causing her death through negligent driving, has been bound over by Judge N. J. Monahan in municipal court at Green Bay for trial on Nov. 28 under $2,000 bonds. He was unable to raise the bond so will await trial in jail.

Charges of manslaughter are expected to be filed by the district attorney against Coenen. The penalty that may be imposed for fourth degree manslaughter is from one to two years in the penitentiary, or a $1,000 fine or both. One year in the county jail also may be given, it is said.

Alcohol Simplest, Best Way To Prevent Radiator Of Auto From Freezing

Clogging Of Tubes Easily Done With Use Of Improper Liquids Garage Men Say—Draining Is Laborious And Uncertain

Now that the "frost is on the bumper and the Ford is in the shop," it might be wise to lay aside that valuable booklet on the Art of Flivving for a few moments and bury one's nose in the Automobile Guide to Health.

As in the case of humans, to the automobile no time is so favorable in which to catch a cold as in the fall or early winter. Any cold, snappy motorist is well apt to catch any automobile owner napping these days. Nor is the motorist immune who has decided to winter the car in storage.

A conversation between two professional automobilists in a downtown garage this week revealed that their Lizzies had been affected by something or other as a result of a severe chill. They were debating as to just the proper kind of soothing syrup to administer in the future. A said he was through with this patent radiator compound stuff for all time, as it had eaten holes through the copper and brass of the radiator on his car. B said he was ready to try anything once and heard that glycerine was the proper medicine to use.

The garage which serves as a kind of bank of deposit for every form of complaint had collected a few "do's" and "don'ts" on the subject from past mistakes of its customers; hence the owner began to open his supply of advice.

"Alcohol," he said, "is the only reliable freeze preventive to be obtained. It is also the least harmful. Put a little alcohol into the water of the radiator and, depending upon how you use your car, it will last a long time. But don't expect that one gallon will last all winter. Any garage has a hydrometer, and the alcohol content of the radiator should be tested often. Alcohol, you know, evaporates much faster in warm weather than water. Be sure there is no leak in the radiator, however."

Another radiator repairman advised that if a little glycerine be mixed with the alcohol, it will do much to prevent the alcohol from evaporating so rapidly. The alcohol used in repair shops is usually already prepared and mixed with the glycerine.

HASTE MAKES WASTE.
"I have known a few drivers," said a third mechanic, "who were in such a hurry to get started that they rushed into the house and took the warm dishwater that happened to be on the stove. It didn't seem to hurt the radiator at the time, but the soap in the water began to cake and to interfere with the cooling surface. Other people make the mistake of putting oil into the water which also produces a thick coat. Neither will wash off like alcohol and glycerine. Some people use kerosene, but this is rather dangerous."

If no alcohol is used, garagemen say, it is necessary to drain out the radiator thoroughly each night. In draining a radiator, one should make sure that every bit of water has been removed from the tubes.

DRAIN CAREFULLY
"Some motorists simply open the cocks to let the water out and then leave it without paying further attention to it," said one dealer. "Yet sometimes the water begins to clog and freezes in spite of what was done. One should stay at the machine until all is drained out, and after that start the engine to draw out the last drops in the tubes."

"If a radiator is once frozen solid, it is likely to be ruined beyond repair. A tubular radiator will not stand the frost that a honeycomb radiator will."

COLLEGE HOLDS FIRST ORATORY EVENT FRIDAY

The interclass oratorical contest of Lawrence college will take place in the old chapel on Friday evening. Two representatives from each of the upper classes will take part and the winners will represent Lawrence in the intercollegiate contests. Each class supports its orators by putting on songs, yells and stunts before and after the competition. This is the only public speaking activity at Lawrence college which is open to women.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge, or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant. adv.

APPLETON'S 1921 PER CAPITA TAX SECOND HIGHEST

Commission's Report Shows Appleton Taxes Were Higher Than In Milwaukee

Appleton in 1921 paid the second highest per capita tax of all larger cities in Wisconsin, according to a tabulation of assessed valuation, general property taxes and tax rates based on local and true value assessments, issued by the Wisconsin tax commission for cities of the state for the year 1921.

The amount collected per capita of population in the 15 largest cities of the state, which includes all state, county and school taxes as well as for cities proper is as follows:
Madison, $50.40; Appleton, $44.03; Milwaukee, $43.49; Kenosha, $42.05; Janesville, $42.03; Wausau, $40.04; Fond du Lac, $35.04; Green Bay, $37.25; Ashland, $36.89; Oshkosh, $35.05; La Crosse, $35.55; Eau Claire, $35.36; Racine, $34.77; Manitowish, $34.58; Beloit, $33.37; Sheboygan, $32.59; Superior, $29.69.

The assessed valuation varies considerably in the different cities as compared with the true value as fixed by the state tax commissioner. The following table shows the percentage of assessed valuation made by the local assessors for taxing purposes as compared with the real value.
Ashland, 110 per cent; La Crosse, 104; Green Bay, 99; Manitowish, 99; Fond du Lac, 97; Oshkosh, 97; Madison, 94; Janesville, 94; Milwaukee, 92; Marinette, 89; Sheboygan, 88; Appleton, 88; Beloit, 85; Eau Claire, 84; Kenosha, 83; Racine, 81; Wausau, 78; Superior, 73.

FONDY ANXIOUS TO SAVE FISH FROM POLLUTION

Fond du Lac chapter of the Isaac Walton League is enthusiastically supporting the movement of the state board of health asking for an appropriation of $17,000 for sanitary engineering work that is to include protection of fish from pollution of streams and lakes.

Pollution of Lake Winnebago and Fox river has furnished a topic for discussion among the members of the league for some time. So serious has the pollution become in the vicinity of Fond du Lac, it is stated, that whole schools of small fish swimming in certain parts of the lake near that city are poisoned and speedily die. Near the mouth of the river, pollution

THE QUESTION CLEMENCEAU RAISES

M. Clemenceau says that after peace was made the United States deserted its allies and left them in the lurch. He speaks the truth. The only argument over what he says is whether the United States was justified in giving her war associates the mitt after seeing them through the battlefield.

The opponents of the League of Nations and those who decried Mr. Wilson assert that America did the proper thing in turning her back on the whole European business after signing up the Versailles treaty. They claim that the American people confirmed this judgment at the polls in 1920. They assert that at the peace conference President Wilson sold his fourteen points for a just peace in return for the League of Nations covenant. They declare that Clemenceau outwitted him and that Lloyd George sealed a bargain which destroyed Mr. Wilson's moral usefulness.

There is color of truth to this version of the peace arrangement, but as in all cases where a theory is advanced to support a partisan cause, the truth has been grossly perverted. The treaty opponents and the League opponents cannot shut their eyes to the fact that France and Great Britain would have accepted American ratification of both the treaty and the covenant with any reservations and modifications we saw fit to make. Indeed, Mr. Lodge very early in the consideration of the treaty by the senate declared the United States could join in the peace engagements on its own terms. Yet Mr. Lodge kept the United States out of the treaty and the League on any terms. The inference necessarily is that the United States does not want to have anything to do with any kind of peace in Europe. We have completely withdrawn from contact with our former allies in the administration of even that portion of the peace program which our obstructionists and isolationists could properly approve. We have simply washed our hands of the whole affair.

When M. Clemenceau chided us for our failure to stand with the allies in peace as we stood with them in war, he rendered a just indictment of American morality. If we did not wish to go as far as Clemenceau and Lloyd George would have had us go, we could have at least gone as far as our conscience and sound American principles would have permitted us to go. This opportunity was always before us. We could have, to again quote Mr. Lodge, joined in the peace undertaking on our own terms.

When Clemenceau says the allies did not march into Berlin because of American influence in the declaration of armistice, regardless of who or what determined the armistice, there are many American citizens, particularly among those who served in the war, that believe the victors ought to have gone to Berlin. After all apologies are made for Germany's failure to pay reparations, on the supposition that they are beyond her capacity to pay, many Americans believe she would have avoided payment and followed much the same course of evasion as she has, regardless of what the indemnity might have been. That Germany should pay and pay heavily for the havoc she wrought in this war will not be denied, and the United States would suffer nothing in the judgment of history if it gave its moral influence toward compelling Germany to make just amends.

Newspaper statements that Clemenceau blames the United States for all of Europe's ills are of course exaggeration. They are the prejudiced view of a hostile press. Clemenceau warns the United States that Europe is rapidly drifting into chaos that is liable to produce another great war, and he knows what he is talking about. He does not ask the United States to fight France's battles or to use its military power to save Europe. He puts it this way: "I want you to interfere in Europe because you left it too soon. I want you to come back, make a little new trip to Europe, saying: 'Well, now, gentlemen, what's the matter with you—something gone wrong? I will give you some help. Can I be of use?' " It is an entirely reasonable and sane proposal. It is another way of saying what the American Bankers association said at its annual convention, what churches all over the United States have been saying in resolutions, what the moral opinion of this country overwhelmingly registers.

It does no good to take France to task for her seemingly severe and exacting attitude toward Germany. France feels that she is alone and must protect herself. She is simply following the law of self-preservation. Had the United States taken part in the conclusions of peace to a consistent and legitimate end, France in all probability would never have insisted upon what is alleged to be her militaristic and provocative policy. There are many who will not like what Clemenceau said because he is speaking frankly, and because the truth is not always pleasant to hear, but at the same time it will pay us to listen to what he says and to measure carefully his appeal.

Simmered down to the bottom of the kettle, the question he raises is, what did we go into that war for? So long as the policy of the last three years continues, so long will the question remain unanswered.

MR. HARDING AND SHIP SUBSIDY

It must be admitted, by even the opponents of ship subsidy, that President Harding in his message to congress on the subject has presented a problem to the country which demands its sober attention. If it is true, as he states, that the operation of that portion of the merchant marine which was the outgrowth of the war and remained in the hands of the government is costing the people $50,000,000 a year in operating deficit, with no allowance made for depreciation, we have a situation that prejudice cannot sweep aside with a wave of hand as of no consequence.

Mr. Harding would solve the problem by paying a subsidy, or as he prefers to express it, government aid, to private interests who might be induced to take over the fleet. He estimates that the cost of the subsidy would save the government at least half of its present loss. There are those who object to a subsidy in principle. Their attitude will probably not be changed by the executive's presentation of facts. There are those who object to the form of the subsidy proposed in the Lasker bill. These may be converted. The probability is that the west will not think deeply on the question but will oppose the subsidy because it dislikes the idea. The east, which is more in touch with ocean commerce and has a better appreciation of American mercantile needs on the high seas, probably will favor the proposal.

The need of an adequate merchant marine will not be disputed. How to get it is another matter. If those who are opposed to the administration's plan have sufficient strength to defeat it it is obviously up to them to suggest a way out of the dilemma pictured by President Harding which will appeal to sound business judgment as well as to national instinct. Indeed, their opposition should not be solely negative no matter whether they have the strength to defeat the measure or not. Opposition is only helpful when it offers something better. Public attention will not be focused so much on this opposition as on what it may submit as an alternative to the administration program.

Because ship subsidy is unpopular is not a sufficient argument against it. Neither is the claim that it will enrich private interests at public expense, for if what the president says is true, that will not be permitted. At any rate, the nation has a serious shipping problem on its hands and its solution is of vital public concern. Everyone should be interested in a right solution, whatever that solution may be.

COUNTY AGRICULTURAL AGENT

The Outagamie county board of supervisors yesterday appropriated $3,000 to pay the salary and expenses of an agricultural agent. This appropriation is an encouraging start but it is hardly sufficient to get the greatest benefit from the new office. The salary of a man competent to give the best service will almost equal the appropriation, leaving very little money to defray his expenses in visiting farmers in their homes where he can do the most effective work.

This will be Outagamie county's second experiment with an agricultural agent. The first was not a success because the agent was not of the necessary calibre. That experience should teach the board to be more careful in its selection this time.

The farm agent's duties are not merely to give advice when it is requested but to offer his assistance in organization work, to promote better breeding, to assist in obtaining better seed, to make tests of seeds and soils and in every other way help the farmer raise two blades of grass where but one grew before. A competent man can do that. If a competent man is secured the county will recover many times his salary in the larger crops that he will bring forth.

ARMOR PIERCING PROJECTILES

Germs which cause the various respiratory infections such as diphtheria, pneumonia or coryza do not select the overclothed or coddled victim, of course, but they do seem to find his respiratory mucous membranes and other tissues more favorable and receptive. Everybody who is capable of observing and thinking knows that the respiratory infections, commonly called "colds" prevail chiefly where temperatures or climate is mild and less where it is severe or cold. For instance, there is more pneumonia per thousand persons in South Carolina than in Minnesota, more in Missouri than in Montana, more in Utah than Nebraska, according to United States mortality statistics. There are no statistics available to show that these respiratory diseases prevail more extensively among persons who coddle their bodies with excessive or unnecessary clothing and live and work in overheated rooms.

All health authorities, even those who still warn the public against going out without sufficient clothing, teach that it is dangerous to let any one sneeze or cough in your face. In spite of much effort to enlighten the laity about that, there are still plenty of folk who are entirely indiscriminate with their germ laden spray, splashing on friend and stranger alike, letting fly anywhere without batting an eye, since this a free country and every one has a right to divide his coughs and sneezes with his neighbors, and the neighbors have to thank the health authorities who soften this crime by hinting that what one catches from the spray is, make no mistake, a draft or wet foot or something. No, it happens to be diphtheria the health authorities don't dwell on draft or the wet feet, but for most of the respiratory infections "exposure" still serves very well.

Every one in the city must have noticed, on a cold raw day in early spring or late fall, a boot-black or newsboy dressed in little more than a good layer of dirt. Those boys seldom have so called "colds." The youngster whose parents are in better circumstances and who therefore wears all mother, aunt or grandma can pile on and then some, is the shining victim. The more the child is coddled the more will he suffer from the respiratory diseases. Some parents keep their children in too much because the tots "take cold so easily." The truth is the tots "take cold" too much because they are kept in so easily.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Peaches And Bunions

Is it harmful to eat four or five peaches during a forenoon? I seem to crave something to nibble on all the time. Please tell me how to get rid of bunions. Mine are not very large but the bumps don't look very attractive. (Betsy L.)

Answer peaches would be the equivalent of a pint and a half of milk in food value. If you need that much nourishment in addition to your meals it is all right, though better to take the peaches all at one time and not to eat all day. Bunions are partly dislocated great toe joint. Once established there is no remedy short of operation, for cure. It may not be too late for you to give your feet a square deal by wearing shoes having straight or infaring inside heels and sole pieces following the shape of the foot, broad soles which give room for the toes and wide round tips, not pointed. Just now some tendency toward the normal is prevalent in the fashions, but no doubt the shoe makers will quickly revert to the freak footwear when the sex is sold on heel, wide toe stuff. Fashion seems to be a shrewd dame, swinging away from present vogue just as soon as the general run of people seem caught up on it.

A Resume of American Newspaper Opinion.

CONGRESS RETAINS POWER TO SAY WHO SHALL BE CITIZEN

While there is a distinct difference of opinion editorially expressed concerning the merits of the Supreme Court decision that Japanese cannot be naturalized it is agreed that it is important that the right of Congress to determine who shall and who shall not enjoy such privilege is most important. Editors also are divided whether the decision will result in strained relations between the two countries but the majority anticipate that it will not.

While the Japanese "Jingoes" will storm in the opinion of the Minneapolis TRIBUNE, "there is reason to believe the people of both countries take a more reasonable and less prejudiced attitude than formerly toward the whole question of Japanese privilege in this country. It is now more fully recognized that sharp divergences in moral, social and industrial standards do not necessarily signify superiority or inferiority on either side." The Chattanooga TIMES also feels certain that "the decision cannot and will not involve any issue of diplomacy or create any strained relations with Japan." And, inasmuch as "The Japanese are not white men," the Wheeling REGISTER says "if our laws exclude them from citizenship they will abide by the decision without need to resort to threats." This is an excellent reason for this opinion in the view of the Providence JOURNAL, and that is "so far as the limitation of naturalization to white persons is concerned that has been the rule almost from the beginning of the Government. The exception in favor of the blacks was introduced following the Civil war."

The decision suggests to the Toledo BLADE that "a system of penalizing non-voters would not do away completely with the carrying of elections by minorities "inasmuch as this case showed how much the Japanese petitioners valued their right of citizenship. The non-voter, the BLADE continues, "is responsible for an immense amount of evil which has been visited upon this nation. Who shouldn't he be required to pay for it?" But the Lafayette JOURNAL COURIER argues, that the decision must be regarded entirely on its merits because "we have one almost hopeless race problem. We cannot afford another. Exclusion is in the interest of the Japanese in the long run, as well as ours." It also clarifies the problem, the Chicago NEWS asserts, inasmuch as "it is within the power of congress to revise the naturalization laws and extend or reduce the zone referred to in the court's decision. In other words political and diplomatic questions are reserved as they should be to congress and the people. The judiciary may not legislate under the pretense of constraining and applying provisions of organic or statutory law." Furthermore, the Memphis COMMERCIAL APPEAL suggests, that "if the government can refuse citizenship on the grounds of race and color it can also refuse citizenship for many other reasons. And it would be a good thing for the future status of the country if we should look more closely into the state of mind and possibilities for efficiency and loyalty of future immigrants to this country."

Dangers must be faced as a result of the decision, the Birmingham PRESS argues, because "it needs no great knowledge of history or of human nature to teach us that a nation which contains a large body of people who cannot become citizens is in the same danger as a church which contains a large body of people who do not pretend to adhere to its ethical principles. As an act of self-protection the nation can keep people out who are not eligible for citizenship, but if we admit people who cannot be naturalized, or if we persist in denying citizenship rights to those already here, we begin to mark off the population into fixed classes. And the moment we do that we deny the democratic principle on which this nation was founded."

"This tightening in anti-Asiatic policy will doubtless inflame that section of Japanese feeling which is already bitter toward Americans," says the Baltimore SUN, "but the fact remains that the Japanese are not a people who cannot become citizens. It is closely paralleled by the attitude of the Japanese Government toward the white races." In addition, the Philadelphia PUBLIC LEDGER feels, that "this final decision is in line and in harmony with the whole sweep of our enactments and decisions and it does reflect the American wish and determination." The New York TIMES points out that "nothing is really changed by the opinion of the Supreme Court which simply interprets the true intent of Congress in enacting the naturalization law," while the New York WORLD explains that "it lies within the discretion of Congress to raise the bars against all but Caucasians and Africans, for reasons good or bad, but expressed in the form of law. It is thus entirely a matter of policy."

The Japanese have a right to "resent this discrimination," in the opinion of the Brooklyn EAGLE, and the decision "places the burden for this discrimination squarely upon the shoulders of the nation where hitherto it has rested rather unfairly upon the western states." The opinion shows, the Pittsburgh LEADER says, that "it is not a question of human superiority in the final analysis, but of color of skin. The color does not make the man any more or less a democratic boast, but the color of the skin does. Two generations hence the people of the United States may be asking each other why the people of 1922 did not have common sense and foresight enough to have included the Japanese among the races fit to become citizens of our country, since they have become citizens by birth, which is equal to naturalization in the long run." While Japanese of-

Shrines Of Sikh Cause Trouble

"Trouble over Sikh Shrines, cable dispatches continue to inform us, is the greatest immediate danger to the peace of India."

"Does 'Sikh' mean a religion or a nationality?" is apt to be the first question asked in a discussion of the subject.

"While Sikhism primarily is a religion it has placed its mark strongly on its adherents who inhabit northwest India," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"Even today, when the Sikh commonwealth no longer exists, their religion sets Sikhs apart practically as a distinct people from the followers of the Hindu and Mohammedan religions who surround them."

"Sikhism originated in the important plains country of the Punjab in northwestern India, not far from the great Indus River and the mountains which form the boundary between India and Afghanistan; and this has remained the region of its greatest strength. It arose toward the close of the 15th century. The immediate cause for the birth of Sikhism seems to have been the need for a protest against the idolatry, caste system, and cruel practices of Hinduism, the fanaticism of Mohammedanism, and the subjection of women practiced by both those dominant religions."

"Nanak, the 'Guru' or Teacher, who founded Sikhism, struck out boldly against abuses in the religions about him. He taught there is one God, though He may be called by many names. Simplicity was emphasized. Unlike Hindus, Sikhs could eat meat, though beef was expected."

"A phase of Sikhism far-reaching in its results, was its insistence on the observance of rules of health. In addition to eating what most Westerners regard as a more strengthening diet than the vegetarian fare of the Hindu, Sikhs were to ban alcoholic beverages and tobacco, were to bathe daily in cold water, and were not to make pilgrimages to Hindu holy places. The practice of making pilgrimages is considered an important factor in the spreading of disease in India."

"The five great virtues stressed by the Sikh teachers were contentment, compassion, piety, patience, and morality. The five deadly sins to be shunned were lust, anger, covetousness, worldly love and pride. The Sikh faith could almost be condensed into the injunctions: Love God and your fellow man; keep a pure heart; lead a temperate, wholesome, normal life. Because of these simple fundamentals it has been called the most occidental and the most pragmatic of Eastern religions."

"At first Sikhism developed peacefully. After several generations the Mohammedan Mogul emperors in control of northern India began to persecute the new sect. Under persecutions the Sikhs were knitted together more firmly and finally about the close of the 17th century, after one of their Gurus was martyred, their future was changed by a new leader, Guru Gobind Singh, from a peaceful to a militant religion."

"All men who were willing to die for their religion were given this baptism with holy water sprinkled from a two edged sword. These, the picked men of the Sikhs were trained as soldiers, not for purposes of aggression or to extend their faith by force, but to protect their religion. After a while the Sikhs, in spite of their wonderful army, were driven from the Punjab plains by the Mohammedans; but hidden away in the hills and held together by their militant religion, they prospered. When the Mogul empire collapsed the Sikhs again took possession of the plains country and by about 1800 had built up a great Sikh commonwealth under the rules of a Sikh Maharaja with his capital at Lahore."

"In the early part of the 19th century, the Sikhs came into collision with the British. After two wars which constituted the most serious military opposition which the British encountered in India, the Sikhs were defeated and their territory was made a part of British India. The Sikhs then became adherents of the British, and thanks to military ability, their most valuable supporters among the Indian peoples. They remained loyal and assisted with their armies during the Indian Mutiny in 1857 and are credited with having saved India to Great Britain during that trying period."

fealdom" is likely to take a wise view of the decision, the Baltimore AMERICAN suggests that it also "is forced in these days to deal diplomatically with the growing democratic rampartism in Japan."

Carefully reviewing the entire decision and the reasons of the court the Newark NEWS suggests that one effect to Japan "is indicated and 'Japan has no cause to feel aggrieved. The United States has a right, as has Japan, to decide for herself the qualifications for citizenship. America has officially recognized Japan as among the great nations of the world. On international questions, affecting both nations, we have admitted Japan's greatness and her right to be consulted. On internal affairs we hold, and hold properly, that no one has the right to interfere with our decisions. The belief likewise is expressed by the UICIA OBSERVER DISPATCH that "the American stock and paper markets can never peacefully mingle. They are entirely distinct and separate people and should be kept so. We can tolerate each other in business and that is as far as they should go. The law that the United States Supreme Court has sustained in the present decision, is entirely just and reasonable." It also is, the Boston TRANSSCRIPT feels, "a desire to maintain our racial purity that has impelled the United States to deny American citizenship to the nationals of Japan."

Teach Children How To Think

(Caroline E. MacGill, in The North American Review.)

It isn't hard to teach children to think, if they are not mentally deficient. It is harder to keep them from thinking, which is the reason why discipline is such a terror to some.

Even the average stupid child will install a self-starter, if he finds he can use it. There must be a teacher behind the desk who thinks, however, and such a one always finds that discipline takes care of itself.

She gets the reputation of being a "crackpot disciplinarian," to quote the oddity incongruous description I once heard, without realizing herself just why or how. But the children know. They probably call her by some disrespectful nickname, the infant equivalent of "dead game sport," and adore her.

What is teaching children to think? What is the thought-process anyway? Roughly, it is the ability to observe, to analyze and synthesize, and to draw conclusions, as a basis of judgment and action. The popular and long-tried method is trial and error. Children inherit an aptitude for thinking, due to the fairly many generations since the human animal first distinguished himself by the process. But like many other aptitudes, it may be nurtured or suppressed by the environment. The ceaseless questioning of the child is proof that the thinking process is alive and functioning. The person who has ceased to question is dying at the top.

The Question Box

The Bureau cannot give advice on legal, medical, and financial matters. It does not attempt to settle domestic troubles, nor to undertake exhaustive research on any subject. Write your question plainly and briefly. Give full name and address and enclose two cents in stamps for return postage. All replies are sent direct to the inquirer.)

Q. What is the oldest piece of literature in existence? F. A. A. Probably the oldest known piece of literature in existence is the Babylon Tablet produced by the people of Babylon.

Q. Is "but what" correct when used in the sense of "but that which?" D. N. J.

A. It is incorrect. The form "but that" should be used: "I am not sure but that my dress is too short."

Q. What is ideal garden soil? A. M.

A. The ideal garden soil is a mellow, well drained loam. As a rule, sandy loam will produce early crops, but the stiffer clay loams usually give larger yields.

Q. How many farmers are there in the United States? L. P. S.

A. According to the 1920 census report there was 6,448,344.

Q. What is meant by a "sane fourth?" J. J.

This means an observance of Independence Day which shall neither jeopardize the lives nor property of citizens by the careless use of fireworks and explosives and also an observance of the day which, while it shall give expression to the patriotic feelings of Americans, shall not be a burdensome cost, or entail a foolish outlay of money by the tax payers of the country.

Q. How many steps in the stairway of the Statue of Liberty? C. E. M.

A. In the Statue of Liberty the number of steps from the base of the foundation to the top of the torch is 403. The number from the ground to the top of the pedestal is 195.

Q. What does a small letter c surrounded with a circle mean? E. J. J.

A. This is a sign that the photograph or article bearing the mark has been copyrighted.

FOREIGN EDITORIAL DIGEST

GERMAN MARKS SCARCE

London.—The Daily News says any one in possession of German paper money can secure a much better rate than that at which they are quoted by taking the money to the banks or to one of the exchange offices and sell them.

Travelers to the Continent endeavoring to obtain German money in London lately have been unable to do so, most foreign exchanges exhibiting notices stating that they could supply only cheques on Germany.

One of the Thomas Cook and Son's offices had a few 10,000 marks, but nothing less, and the cashier said that is what has occurred in Germany, them in London, he having scoured the City in the endeavor to obtain notes of a smaller denomination.

One of the results of the terrific fall in the value of the mark during the past few weeks is a serious scarcity of notes in Germany.

It is obvious that if a Government prints too much paper money, the purchasing power of that money will decrease, which means that prices, as expressed in that money, will rise. What is not at first apparent is, however, that such process results in an ever-increasing demand for the money, and any violent rise in prices may lead to an actual shortage.

Thus, by printing too much money, there is not enough to go round. This is what has occurred in Germany, where it now takes 2.00 marks to buy what 1,000 would have bought a few weeks ago.

The big banks are unable to supply their customers with enough paper money to pay wages, with the result that many firms have to pay their workers by cheque, which the banks can only partially meet in notes.

Notes in Germany command a premium, i. e., a firm will give a cheque for 100,000 marks for 100,000 marks in notes, so that we have the Gilbertian spectacle of an enormous depreciated currency obtaining a premium in its own country.

GAMBLIN SCHOOL IN ENGLAND

London.—The Manchester correspondent of the Daily News says:

The capture of 50 men and youths participating in a gambling "school" in a secluded hollow at New Moston, Manchester, was brought about by a piece of clever acting by the police.

Several officers set out disguised as golfers, hockey players, and footballers, and they had wives and children with them "to watch the games."

On the golf course an officer drove his ball so that it landed near the gamblers' look-out man, who was observing the country with a pair of powerful opera glasses.

The ball was lost, and the look-out man began helping to search.

To his dismay he was pounced upon and prevented from giving an alarm. The capture of the "school" was then comparatively easy. Some "loafers" who had been lounging about proved to be policemen in disguise.

Ill the fifty members of the "school" were today fined 40s.

BULGARIAN POLITICS COMPLICATED

London.—Cabling from Belgrade the correspondent of the Post says:

There are signs in Bulgaria of a growing movement against M. Stamboliski. It is well known that between him and the Ministers of his Cabinet, together with the intellectual leaders of the Peasant movement, there have hitherto been various disagreements. M. Stamboliski aimed at strengthening his position at the forthcoming general Congress of the Party at Sofia. This Conference is now postponed till the spring, the object being to avoid more bloodshed. The peasants are still excited after the Tirnova affair. This decision to postpone the Congress was made without M. Stamboliski's consent. Fear of the Bolsheviks exists among the intellectual leaders.

Donate 1,000 Doughnuts To Auction

Teachers Help By Gift—Student Clowns Advertise Event With Antics

No fewer than 1,000 of Mrs. Oliver Smith's velvet doughnuts have been donated to the senior auction by the members of the faculty of Appleton high school. The number also is given as $5 dozen, but the teachers prefer to have you think of their donation in the thousand class. The doughnuts and all other donations made either by students or people in town should be delivered to the high school building on Tuesday or Wednesday. Former announcements suggested that contributions sent on Wednesday be delivered to the armory. The latest decision is that if all deliveries are made to the high school there will be less confusion. Treasurers of pools are busy collecting the funds with which to bid at the auction. Auctioneers are brushing up their salesmanship and bookkeepers are sharpening their pencils for the occasion, to save nothing of the cooks and candy-makers who are busy shining up their utensils. The senior class put on a stunt in the assembly Friday morning for all the students advertising their big fun and charity event. John Bonum as the auctioneer and John Voigt as a clown tumbler brought forth many laughs. The clown caused many a girlish scream and fluttering heart by his tumbling on and off the lost rum with the ease of a rubber ball.

NINE WILL ATTEND EDITOR'S MEETING

Conference Of High School Journalists Will Be Held In Madison In December

Madison will entertain nine Appleton high school students on Dec. 1 and 2 as delegates to the Central Inter-School Press association convention. The meetings will bring 650 student journalists to the university for consideration of high school newspaper and magazine problems. Those who will attend include the Misses Eleanor Tuttrill, Katherine Small, Cathryn Wolfe, Gertrude Zuchlik, Grace Hangan, Marjorie Neller and Harlan Hackbert, Beverly Murphy and Maurice Peerenboom. The boys will be entertained at the Chi Psi house at the invitation of Gerald Koch, who is a member of that fraternity. Requests for housing accommodations for the student delegates are being sent out to all fraternities, so parties and rooming houses in Madison so that each of the delegates will be taken care of. Many private houses have been opened to the students also. The program for the meetings will include 30 round table discussions at which problems of editors, managers and advisors will be discussed. The entertainment feature includes a ball, pictures, sightseeing tours and a banquet. A. M. Braxton of the Wisconsin State Journal, John R. Wolf of the Milwaukee Journal and several Chicago newspaper men will talk.

School Week Opens With Health Talks

First Ward Parent-Teacher Association Meets Monday—Visitation Is Later

Preparations are being made at the First district school for the observation of national education week, which begins Dec. 4. The regular December meeting of the Parent-Teachers association of the district occurring on Monday will have a health program as the first event. Talks will be given by Miss Luy Verity, school nurse for the First and Second district schools and by a local doctor.

The biggest feature of the week in the First district, however, will be on Thursday and Friday when all the parents of the children will be invited to visit the different grades in the school. No special program will be prepared in the rooms, but all parents will be welcome to come for a visit any time during the two days and to stay as long as they please in each room.

Yule Pageant Will Be Given By Two Choirs

The "Pageant of the Nativity" will be given by the Congregational and Methodist church choirs at Lawrence Memorial chapel on Dec. 17 and 18 as the regular Christmas community musical program. Carl J. Waterman and Carl McKee, directors of the choirs, will have charge of the presentation and are working on the music selected from "Bethlehem" and "Coming of the King." A dramatic director will be selected soon to take charge of the dramatic effects of the production.

LODGE NEWS

Waverly lodge of the Masonic order will have a special meeting at 7:30 Saturday evening at which fellow craft degree will be conferred.

Knights of Pythias had a card party and smoker Thursday evening following a regular meeting in Castle hall. Prizes were won by Ralph Schmidt at skat, Paul Hackbert at schafkopf and Joseph Kox at bridge.

Winter Parties Will Increase Free Bed Fund

Proceeds from the card party to be given in Elk hall at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon by St. Elizabeth club will be added to the free hospital bed fund. The club is endeavoring to maintain as many free beds as possible for the purpose of helping those needing medical attention and who are not able to pay for it. It is to that end the club plans to give a card party the last Saturday of each month, ending the last of May. Mrs. Carl Schuetter is chairman of the party to be given Saturday.

Near the close of the evening a grand prize was given to the blindfolded person drawing the correct number from a bag. W. H. Dean was the lucky person and received a live goose.

MARRIAGE LICENSES
Application for marriage licenses was made as follows Thursday: Bernard Vandell of Wrightstown, and May C. Vicau, Kaukauna; John Peerenboom and Mary Hermen, both of Little Chute; Walter Rusch, Caladonna, and Alma Beckman, Dale.

WHY WOMEN GET DESPONDENT

Are not women naturally as light-hearted, brave and hopeful as men? Yes, certainly, but a woman's organization is essentially different from a man's—more delicate, more sensitive and more exacting. Women in delicate health are more dependent, more nervous, more irritable and more despondent. When a woman develops nervousness, sleeplessness, backaches, headaches, dragging down pains and melan cholia she should lose no time in giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial, as it will quickly dispel such troubles. This root and herb medicine contains no drugs and has been the standby of American womanhood for nearly fifty years.

VISITING SCOUTS WILL ATTEND RALLY TONIGHT

Girl Scout leaders from Neenah and Kaukauna will attend the big Girl Scout rally at Appleton vocational school at 7:30 Friday evening. The program will include a moving picture called "The Golden Eagle" and several stunts by the girl scouts themselves. Each patrol will act out one scout law or scout promise. There will be a parade of the girls who are to be given merit badges and they will be dressed to represent the badges which they have won. Scout ranks also will be conferred. All Appleton people who are interested in scouting are urged to be present.

Miss Johanna Hoffman, 1083 Oneida st, has left for Chicago where she will attend the Wisconsin Chicago football game Saturday. Miss Hoffmann will visit Hyde Park and University high schools on Monday.

Miles Standish House

"Built to Withstand Hardship"

In Duxbury, Mass., is a long, low, gambrel-roofed structure prominent among local landmarks as having been the home of Miles Standish, brave leader of the Puritan colony's fighting forces. It commends itself for its sturdy frame, for after two hundred and fifty years it still defies the elements. And it pays to build well.

A third of a century ago, Hardwick & Magee Company, Philadelphia, creating the line of

BUNDHAR WILTON RUGS and CARPETS

fashioned a fabric of unusual sturdiness and dependability and they have made their product known the country o'er as

"Durable as Iron"

We are displaying a wonderful range of designs and colorings suitable for every decorative purpose.

LEGION HOPEFUL OF WINNING GRID GAME ON SUNDAY

Lauerman Twins Most Powerful Team Kaukauna Has Scheduled This Year

Kaukauna—The regular Kaukauna American legion team will play the Lauerman Twins at Marinette Sunday afternoon. A few rumors have been about that a number of outside professional players have been signed to strengthen the local squad. The reports have been emphatically denied by manager Ronnick. He said that a squad of Kaukauna players has upheld the reputation of the team for two years and that same squad will be called upon now to make a more attractive opportunity has presented itself.

The question of using automobiles or taking the train to Marinette for the game has been discussed. It is thought the fellows should be kept in shape as much as possible and that they should take the train.

Coach W. F. Ashe has had charge of a hard practice this week. While it will be impossible to determine who will start the game, it is supposed that the usual lineup in the last few games will be used. Enough men will be taken to make numerous changes easy without crippling the team's strength.

According to the dope, the legion has a good chance to win. The reputation of the Twins is known. The local squad has strength, weight, and the advantage of efficient training which has made it more than a match for every team played in the last two seasons. Few football eleven have been able to give a good account of themselves before the onslaught of Captain Lundauer's warriors.

Should the legionaries be unable to penetrate the professional line, it is expected they will be able at least to hold their opponents from scoring with straight football tactics. The fame of Kaukauna's line is widespread. Only three or four teams have crossed the Electric City goal line on straight football since the beginning of the team.

PICK 9 STUDENTS FOR DEBATE TEAMS

Kaukauna—Nine students have been chosen from 14 candidates to represent the high school in debating this year. Tryouts were held Tuesday afternoon and a committee of seven faculty members decided the contest. Kaukauna is a member of the Wisconsin Interscholastic Debating League, sponsored by Lawrence College. The question for the coming debating season will be "Resolved, that congress should enact a law applying the essential features of the Kansas Industrial court to the settlement of railroad disputes."

The same question was used in the tryout Tuesday. Those who received appointments were Mollie Golden, Karl Hansen, Harold Derus, Elmer Ott, Harold Frank, John Rohan, Elizabeth Schussman, Gordon Patten and Donald McDonald. It has not yet been announced what students from this group will form the regular team and who will be substitutes. Elmer Ott, Karl Hansen, Donald McDonald and Harold Frank were members of last year's team.

Social Items

Kaukauna—A card party and dance will be given Friday evening in Elk hall by club No. 11, of St. Mary church. Prizes will be awarded for schafskopf and hearts. The proceeds will be added to the new school fund.

A group of Kaukauna friends surprised Ernest Albrecht at a "coal stove" party at his home in Appleton Thursday evening. Schafskopf furnished amusement.

A meeting of the Equitable Fraternal union was held Wednesday evening in Odd Fellow hall. Routine business was disposed of and a social hour followed. Refreshments were served.

INDUSTRY EXPERT ASSAILS 'ISMS'

Peter W. Collins To Speak Under K. Of C. Auspices Monday Night

Kaukauna—Peter W. Collins, well known industrial expert, will give an address in the city auditorium next Monday evening, Nov. 27 under the auspices of Kaukauna council, Knights of Columbus. His subject will be "The Enemy at the Gate."

Mr. Collins, who is said to be one of the best informed speakers on the industrial question, comes here as part of the Knights of Columbus campaign against radicalism and for construction of thought and services.

The speaker was an industrial expert for the federal government during the war. His talk will deal with the causes and cure of present industrial unrest and stress. He will touch on the doctrines of socialism, bolshevism and I. W. W.ism. During the war he represented the government as industrial expert in many of the largest munitions plants, factories and shipyards in the country. Following the armistice he was placed in charge of the K. of C. reconstruction and employment system which replaced more than 300,000 former service men in jobs.

Mr. Collins also will deal with the potentialities for social disorders in the world. His experience with capital and labor has equipped him with an ultimate knowledge of industrial disputes and his contact with employers and employees enables him to understand their viewpoint.

The lecture will begin at 8 o'clock. No admission will be charged and no collection will be taken.

Pile Sufferers

Can You Answer These Questions

Do you know why ointments do not give you quick and lasting relief?

Why cutting and operations fail?

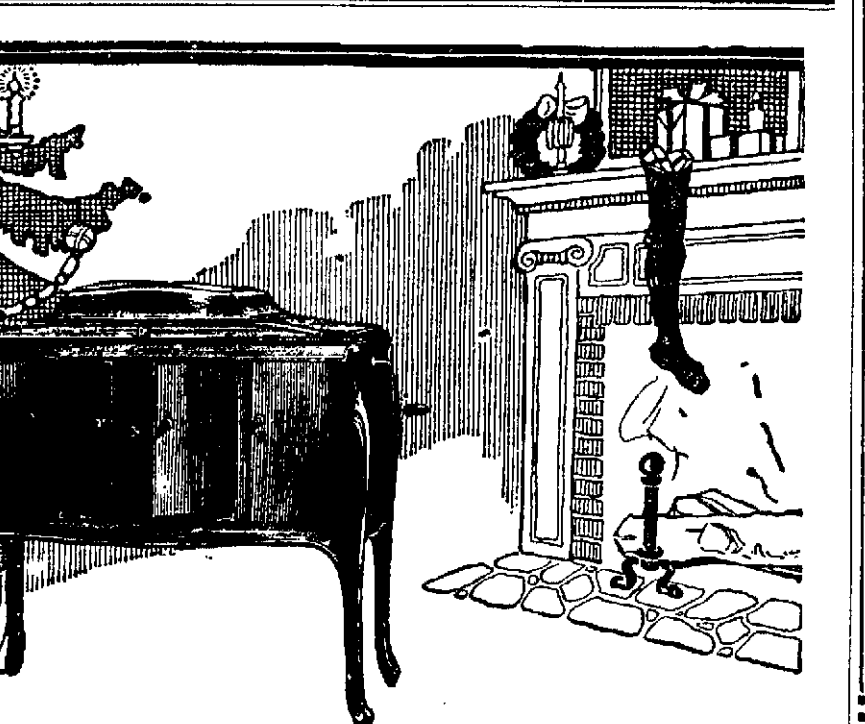

Do you know the cause of piles is internal?

That there is a stagnation of blood in the lower bowel?

Do you know that there is a harmless internal tablet remedy disc covered by Dr. Leonhardt and known as HEM-ROID, now sold by Schlitz Bros. Co. and druggists generally, that is guaranteed?

HEM-ROID banishes piles by removing the internal cause, by freeing blood circulation in the lower bowel. This simple home treatment has an almost unbelievable record for sure, safe and lasting relief to thousands of pile sick sufferers, and saves the needless pain and expense of an operation. There is no reason why it should not do the same for you.

Woman Nimrod Finds Thrills In Deer Hunting

(Special to Post-Crescent)

Black Creek—Mrs. E. H. Schultz, Black Creek's only woman nimrod, believes there is no sport quite so fascinating as hunting deer even though a person does not always come home successful.

Mrs. Schultz returned this week from Conover, where she was a member of a hunting party including her husband and Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Scattler of Bear Creek. Mr. Schultz was the only successful person in the party, killing one large deer which he brought with him.

Mrs. Schultz took out a license this year for the first time, determined to share the excitement of hunting with her husband, who has spent the deer season at Conover annually for many years.

The woman nimrod went with the party every day but one. "While standing on a log, I saw a deer and shot at it," she said, "but I evidently did not hit him because he kept running. That was the only one I saw. When I realized how hard it was to kill a deer, I thought I would let Mr. Schultz kill them. I tried to scare them up for him, but carried my gun just the same."

Mrs. Schultz thoroughly enjoyed her experience and is anxious for the next deer hunting season to arrive, as she intends to try her luck again.

CANNING FACTORY TO RUN ALL WINTER MAKING SAUERKRAUT

Grounds Around Plant at Hortonville Are Being Converted Into Park

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Hortonville—About four carloads of cabbage are shipped to the Fox Valley Canning Co. daily from various sections. Besides these, several loads are brought in daily by farmers from the surrounding country.

Approximately 1,000 cases of sauerkraut are canned in a day. There are 24 cans in a case.

The factory superintendents expect to keep their help busy until late spring, canning kraut. Contracted canned goods are shipped out from the factory daily.

A small plot of hitherto unused ground at the canning factory is being made into a park. A large number of small trees have been set out. This will help to improve the looks of the factory and also afford a place of recreation for employees.

Speaks Highly of This Home Made Cough Remedy

Says It Acts With Unusual Speed—Loosens the Mucous—Relieves The Irritation and Stops the Cough

Costs Next to Nothing—for a Big Supply

Whenever anyone in my family catches cold and begins to cough and sneeze, and hawk and breathe heavy, it doesn't take me many minutes to fix up a remedy that will drive away all such troubles in double quick time.

It's no secret—anyone can make a half pint of the finest cough medicine in the world for a trifling sum.

Get from any druggist one ounce of Eucalypti (double strength)—to this add a little granulated sugar and enough water to make one half pint—that's all there is to it.

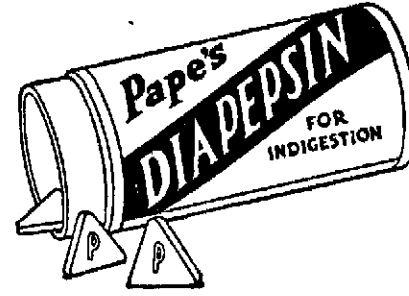

But now you've got a real medicine—mind you—the first spoonful you take acts directly on the membrane of the throat and nose, the tickling ceases almost instantly—the inflammation begins to disappear—up comes the stubborn mucus and often in 24 hours every trace of the cough that frightened you is gone.

It's really remarkable how this home made remedy acts on the mucous membrane and that is one reason it is so helpful to thousands of Catarrh sufferers.

Richard Kees Thrown When Pitchfork Catches in Fly-wheel of Engine

Special to Post-Crescent
Sherwood—While working around an ensilage machine at the Kees farm Saturday, Richard Kees accidentally let a pitchfork get caught in a fly-wheel, hurling him several feet and knocking out several teeth. He was badly bruised in the fall. He was attended by a doctor at Hilbert and is recovering rapidly.

Mr. and Mrs. John Damforth had what could have been a serious accident Sunday evening while on their way home from Green Bay. About 4 miles west of here on highway 114 they met another car traveling at a very high rate of speed. The driver did not give them enough road and the Damforth car was forced into the ditch and tipped over. Mr. and Mrs. Damforth were pinned underneath back was injured. The car was out and help Mrs. Damforth, whose car but Mr. Damforth managed to get smashed badly. The cars that passed them did not stop to help or see if anyone was injured.

Children Of Century Ago Had Games

Pioneer children, who lived 150 years ago, in scattered settlements at the edge of hostile Indian territory, had very few games such as we know them, but there was plenty of sport. After the day's work of gathering wild blackberries, huckleberries, raspberries, plums, grapes, hickory nuts, walnuts, beechnuts, butternuts, edible roots, of tracking and bringing home the cows strayed in the deep forest, chopping wood, fishing and a hundred other things that kept the children of the border settlements busy from day till night, there was always time for play. In Daniel Boone, Wilderness Scout, a history of this most picturesque of pioneers which has been written for the Boy Scouts, Steward Edward White tells their games.

WRESTLING WITHOUT RULES

"They did not have baseball, nor basketball nor football. But when boys got together they played games just the same. Catch-as-catch-can wrestling was much in vogue. There were no complicated rules. You just got hold of the other fellow and tried to throw him. Technicalities did not go. It did no good to prove that both shoulders were not on the ground; you were flat on your tummy; you were down, and—what was the real point—your opponent could beat your face in or tomahawk you, were it the real thing. You were licked. They ran foot races, too, at all distances; jumped, both high and wide. One of the most important of sports was throwing a knife or a tomahawk at a mark. So, of course, was shooting. About the only real game was lacrosse. There is no game that involves more long-continued fast running, is harder on the wind, or that requires more endurance.

The Indians also played several fascinating games of prowess that escaped captives soon brought back to the boys of the border settlements. They too, played lacrosse and in the less serious contests permitted the girls to take part. In concession to their weaker sex the women had the privilege of picking up the ball and running with it, which was not permitted the men. On the other hand, the men were allowed to catch and shake the squaws to make them drop the ball. When Daniel Boone was captured and adopted by Chief Buckfish, he learned to play attergoin, which is a game of beans, a number of which are placed in a bowl. One of these beans is marked and is called the chief. The player shakes the bowl and tries to make the chief hop out, but with a loss of as few of the other beans as possible. When he has caused the chief to leap out, he gains as many points as there are beans left in the bowl. It takes considerable skill, and is a lot of fun. Another game was to shoot an arrow at a rolling hoop. This was done both horseback and afoot, and the object was not to shoot through the center of the hoop, but to split the rim. An expert at bow and arrow could hit a halfpenny at 15 yards, we are told.

Adventures Of The Twins

Fall From Star
Nancy and Nick were in a hard fix on the Tinkly-Winkly Star. Flap-Doodle, the purple fairy who had stolen the Fairy Queen's wand, had changed Nancy into a baby-doll and Nick into a wooden soldier.

Flap-Doodle flew away to the moon, twirling his stick and singing, "Tiddly um dum, doodle um day," as unconcerned as you please.

Nancy fortunately still had in her pocket a bit of the language charm the Magical Mushroom had given her. So she could still talk.

"Nick!" she said cautiously lest she be overheard. "We have our Green Shoes yet. Let's wish our selves out of this."

"Nick rolled his wooden eyes, or tried to roll them.

"Humph!" he said. "And suppose you land with a bump! I've got a good idea. Let's roll. We'll get somewhere."

So they rolled out of Flap-Doodle's front door and down the road. But to their surprise they didn't meet a single Tinkly-Winkly. They didn't know that Flap-Doodle had changed all the Tinkly-Winklys into wooden Indians and things.

Also they forgot the mischievous fairy who had turned down the saucer edges of the Tinkly-Winkly Star so that everything that went near fell off.

Down the road they rolled and on and on and the first thing they knew they'd rolled right over the edge of the star and were falling through space past clouds and moon and stars and everything.

Incorrect

The woman of curves or of medium figure finds herself much more distinctly costumed in a plain tailored suit that fits her figure properly than in fancy attire which has not taken into consideration the lines of her figure.

She also has a much more attractive silhouette and a more trim appearance if she sticks to medium-brimmed hats instead of indulging in the very wide ones, no matter how stylish they may be.

Honeymooner's Abroad

Chapter 8 — Suspicion

By Zoe Beckley

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JACK DURYEA, on his honeymoon in Europe with his bride, EDNA, secretly is investigating the suspected intrigues of COUSINS, his employers' European manager. Arriving at Naples Jack asks Edna to go sightseeing with Cousins in order that Jack may go secretly to the Naples office to push his probe.

GO ON WITH THE STORY

The moment the green car with Cousins and Edna swung down the mountain road Jack left the hotel in a taxi made his way to the Naples office of his company. Doors were closed. Blinds down. Several "pickets" were about, walking up and down before the building.

Jack thought a moment, fished up the only Italian word he knew—"dove," where—"Dove American Consul!" he shouted to the first cabman in sight.

The man nodded, touched his drowsy horse and off they went, drawing up presently before a plain-looking doorway in a brick wall.

But, as so often in Europe, behind the wall was a lovely garden set with lemon and orange trees, an old stone fountain and shrubs through which a pair of kittens played.

"Whew!" gasped Jack with relief at being able to address the attendant in plain English. "It's like having your breath held, this not knowing the lingo. Friend, I want to hire an interpreter with brains."

Half an hour and he was back at the A. E. S. C. with a consulate clerk, a crisp young Easterner, Sam Clark. The latter did some brisk questioning, a bit of investigating, and then reported.

"The strike began," he told Jack. "When the big boss came. He pepped them up, made 'em work too hard or something. Whole staff's out."

Jack nodded. Just as he suspected. There was no coincidence in the arrival of Cousins, of himself, and of the strike. The European manager strongly suspected Jack's mission—and was acting accordingly, that was all.

"This strike," remarked Sam Clark, "is sure a windfall for the Eureka Electrical Supplies Company—your rivals."

"Why, how do you know?" flashed Jack.

"Oh, the big opera house had an emergency job. I happened to know they have always been your customers. We at the consulate know these things. The strike forced them to deal with the Eureka outfit."

"I see," said Jack, and went back to the hotel in a despondent thoughtful mood. He did not expect Edna and Cousins back for some hours. He was startled on entering his room to find his wife nervously pacing the floor.

"Why, Edna, dear, how is it you're back so soon?"

Worried concern was in her eyes. "Oh, Jack, I've had such a—such a wretched afternoon! He is so strange. He suspects something. As soon as we left the hotel he began asking questions."

"Were you subject to sudden headaches? Were you on leave of absence? Had you been abroad before? What was your exact position with the A. E. S. C.—Oh, a lot of things. "I answered the best I could to ward off suspicion, but he grew absent-minded. Then he spoke to the chauffeur in Italian and almost right afterward the car 'broke down.' He finally brought me back in a cab. What does it all mean, Jack?"

"That he and I," said Jack soberly, "are getting each other's number."

SHOE BUCKLES

Very large cut-steel and rhinestone buckles are used on the new colonial pumps. The round or oblong ones are most popular at the moment. Cut steel is used on patent leather, while the satin pump seems to call for the jeweled ornament.

USE OF FUR

Hats, neckpieces, bags, scarfs, sashes and sofa pillows are being made of fur this season. Yet many of the loveliest evening wraps are entirely free from it.

MARRIAGE A LA MODE

The use of the wedding veil was unknown in olden times. Instead the four most intimate friends of the bride held over her and the bridegroom a canopy of rich fabric. Later these canopies were made of lace or fine linen, beautifully embroidered.

The bridal veil of today is an outgrowth of this old custom.

Oats now ready before coffee

There is now an Instant Quaker Oats which cooks to perfection in 3 to 5 minutes. It is the quickest cooking oats in the world.

The same extra quality as in regular Quaker Oats. Flaked from queen grains only—just the rich, plump, flavory oats. They have the same exquisite flavor which won the world to Quaker.

But in Instant Quaker the oats are cut before flaking. They are rolled very thin and partly cooked. So the flakes are smaller and thinner—that is all. And the small thin flakes cook quickly.

Grocers have both styles—take your choice. The Instant style has "Instant" on the label.

In Paris They Match Your Temperament With The Perfume You Use

French Expert Suggests That When Women Synchronize Perfume and Tempers There Will Be Fewer Divorces

BY MARIAN HALE

Matching your temperament in perfume is the latest fad in Paris.

According to M. Luyna, who has demonstrated unusual skill in temperament matching and who has some of the most distinguished women of France as his "perfume followers," the right perfume has exactly the effect upon others as music.

Whether your life is to have the harmony of the symphony or the discord of the calypso depends upon your selection of scent, the Frenchman believes. And the woman who disregards the potency of perfume is practically an unsung lyric.

"When the American woman realizes the importance of her perfumes there will be fewer divorces," M. Luyna states.

EASY AND ORIGINAL

This seems a nice, easy and original way of correcting the divorce evil, so let him lead us further:

"To be alluring," he continues, knowing we all desire to be that, "you must accent only certain characteristics with your perfumes, those which make you different from Mary Smith or Hattie Jones."

"The dark-eyed, sophisticated woman, indolent in her movements and eager with her eye, in other words, our old friend, the vamp, needs a heavy, penetrating fragrance to complete her score."

"The fair, buoyant type, suggesting radiant health, would be incongruous with sandalwood and jasmine. Her choice should be the ever so delicate fragrance of wind-swept garden or a May bouquet."

ACCENTUATES HER TYPE

"The gentle woman with the serene countenance would find the pale white iris her floral counterpart, and its fragrance would accentuate her type."

And so it goes. You study your temperament. Decide whether you suggest one flower, like the shrinking violet, or whether there is something of both the lily and the red rose in your makeup, or if your complex nature can be expressed only in a bouquet—then perfume accordingly.

It may be necessary to create some entirely new extract for you, but consider the divorce evil and the calypso.

Then master, too, the science of applying perfume. To aim an atomizer in your general direction and let the spray fall where it will is most crude.

"The French woman," says M. Luyna, "puts a drop behind each ear and a drop in the fur that nestles against her cheek. She perfumes her handbag and her fan, the lining of her hat and the pocket of her coat rather than her frock."

"She puts tiny balls of cotton, scented, in her clothing and among her accessories. In this subtle way she makes the fragrance seem a part of herself, not something applied from the outside."

FOR EVENING

Sapphire blue velvet with a lining of silver cloth and elaborate sleeves and a novel collar tell the news of this lovely evening coat.

DRESS HINTS

FANCY FOOTWEAR

Jeweled heels are frequently seen on the fanciest shoes. Brocaded materials in gorgeous colors are used for strap pumps. These frequently are worn with flesh-colored hosiery.

PICTURE HAT

A picture hat of black velvet is lined with silver lace and has a bow of pink satin ribbon falling over the left side. It is worn with a black velvet frock.

DANCING FROCK

A smart dancing frock combines a skirt of black velvet and a bodice of white satin, the bodice being elaborately trimmed with black fur.

SHORT FUR COATS

Short coats of leopard fur, collared with dark fur, and worn with straight-line skirts, are much liked by school and college girls. They usually are unbelted.

TESTED RECIPES

CRANBERRIES

By Bertha E. Shapleigh

When the New England colonies first began to use the wild red berry known as the cranberry they added much to the dinner of turkey and chicken, both as to flavor and color. The cranberry ripens in the fall, and now that it is possible to ship food materials from coast to coast all states may enjoy it.

Quit the most common dish is a sauce or jelly. Some people always wish the sauce strained, saying that they object to the tough skins. But if the berries, with half as much sugar as berries, and half as much water as sugar, are cooked in a covered dish 10 minutes after the water begins to boil the skins will be quite tender, and the sauce will jelly and may be molded.

EXCELLENT CONSERVE

A very excellent conserve to eat with meat is made with cranberries, raisins and nuts.

Cranberries and raisins cooked together make an excellent filling for pie, having some of the flavor of cherries.

Cranberries are good with apples, and now that they are much higher in price than formerly, it is advisable to try this combination. Sections of pared and cored apples cooked in cranberry juice and sugar are very attractive, especially when served in glasses with a spoonful of whipped cream on top. Serve with cake.

MID-SUMMER ICE

Sometimes it is very refreshing to have a water ice or frozen fruit juice in the middle of a heavy dinner. It used to be quite the correct thing to serve just after the toast and before the game and salad. But now that dinners have fewer courses the serving of ice is not correct. However, cranberry sauce may be packed in molds (one-half pound baking powder tins are good) and allowed to stand in salt and ice for two hours. Turn from the mold, cut in slices and serve with the turkey. Or freeze sweetened cranberry juice and water, to a mush, and serve in sherbet cups, with the turkey course.

Cranberries strung on a thread are sometimes used as a garnish for the turkey when it is to be sent to the table to be carved.

IF YOU ARE WELL BRED

You know that wedding invitations are always issued by the bride's parents, from two weeks to a month before the day set for the wedding.

If the bride is an orphan they are sent out in the name of her nearest relative. If there is an older brother they may be issued in his name, but never in the name of a sister, unless she is much older than the bride, or unless she is a married woman.

HANDKERCHIEFS

Polka-dots blossom profusely on some of the newest handkerchiefs. Red ones are apt to appear on an orange background and purple ones on green. Very tiny glove handkerchiefs are shown this year. They are tucked into the tiny velvet bracelets worn about the wrists.

BLACK AND STEEL

A smart hat of black panne velvet with a deep crown and small brim is trimmed with steel gray wings, placed at an interesting angle.

Thanksgiving—And a Jersild Sweater!

THE cool crisp air of a perfect November day sweeps across the white-barred field. Twenty-two red-blooded giants are awaiting the signal that will send them into the battle for the glory of Alma Mater.

Stands are a riot of color. Rival bands play rival tunes; cheer leaders gyrate madly about directing the vocal activities of leather-lunged "rooters."

It is the day of days—the day of the Thanksgiving foot ball game.

What matters the chill that creeps over the field in the last minutes of play if you are wearing a Jersild Sweater. It clings snugly to you and its warmth enables you to "follow the ball" in genuine comfort.

Jersild Sweaters are pure wool. That means maximum warmth. And they are hand-tailored—which gives them the snap and dash that fits perfectly into a day when all the world is young.

Go to your dealer today and ask to see the wonderful assortment of Jersild Sweaters in pull-over and coat styles; also the famous line of Pinkerton Knitted Coats for men and boys.

THE TURK HAD MOVED

At the corner of Walnut-st and College-ave Thursday afternoon I heard a funny noise and looking up saw a turkey on top of Lowell's drugstore, gobbling away with all his might. A crowd was standing around watching him. It was evident that he had escaped from someone who had figured on a Turkey dinner for Thanksgiving day.

TURK GOT EXCITED

About 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon I saw a big turkey strutting in the alley near Dohr's hotel on Walnut-st. A man tried to catch it but the Turk became excited and flew to the top of a barn where it was still sitting when I walked away. A crowd gathered around to see the excitement.

A FRIENDLY TOWN

While walking along Lawrence-st Thursday evening I spied a number of girls walking together. Suddenly one of them stopped, took off her garter and handed it to her friend who's stocking would not stay up.

CLOSE CALL FOR THEM

Last Monday morning at about 8 o'clock I had to wait for a train to go by at the crossing on Drew-st. I heard the flagman yell and looking around I saw a car cross the track in front of the train. The people in the car could not see the train until it was too late to turn back, and thus they did not realize the danger they were in.

PROUD DAY FOR DOBBIN

Tuesday morning on North Division-st, I saw a horse hitched to an automobile going east on Second-ave. The horse was hitched to the front axle and the lines were drawn through the windshield. Both driver and horse were getting along fine.

Z. B.

BIG ENOUGH FOR GRANT

Wednesday while at work at the Telulah mill we found a pair of overalls. They measured 78 inches around the waist, the length of the leg was 46 inches. The legs were so large that two men, one in each leg walked through the mill with ease. The pockets were about a foot square. The watch pocket was large enough to hold an alarm clock.

WHAT "MOON" WILL DO

Wednesday evening about 8:30 as I came home from town I noticed a man ahead of me who seemed to be under the influence of liquor. As we approached the corner of Fremont and Jefferson-st, he noticed a car nearby and went over and felt around the tires and after he inspected them all he sat on the back bumper and leaned against the spare tire intending to take a nap. Later a dog came by and started barking which gave the man such a scare that he jumped up and ran away acting as if prohibition officers were after him.

KU KLUX KLAN?

Last night as I was walking down Main-st in the Fourth ward, I saw three automobiles, two Studebakers and a Ford Sedan coming down Monroe-st. In each car were four men dressed in white sheets. When they got to Orange-st they turned in and that's the last I saw of them.

HER OWN FAULT

While going east on College-ave Saturday evening at 7:30 opposite Walker's Drug store I noticed a lady coming across the street. She noticed a car coming at pretty good speed, and by hurrying she managed to cross first ahead of it. But she had no more than escaped the car when a boy on a bicycle following the car turned to the right and struck her falling on the pavement himself. Aside from bruises the woman was not much the worse for her experience. She admitted she was at fault for trying to cross the street in the middle of the block.

G. W. W.

MADE HIM FEEVISH

Monday noon I saw a man leave Briggs Hotel carrying two fat, full suitcases, walking a little unsteadily. When he reached the postoffice, one of his fat suitcases burst open and cuff buttons, thread, collar buttons, shaving stick, brushes, comb, etc., jumped out on the sidewalk and played football awhile with his white shirts and collars. The angry man crammed the stuff in his suitcase, sitting on it to shut it and leaving the cuff buttons and thread on the sidewalk, hurried from the scene.

FOOLHARDY DRIVING

Just before 7 o'clock Thursday evening, as I was about to cross College-ave, I saw a Ford coupe coming north on Oneida-st at a good rate of speed. No other cars were in sight. The driver evidently intended to turn to go west without slowing down. He did, however, give a warning signal. A group of young men engaged in conversation, was crossing the avenue in leisurely fashion. The car was almost upon them before they realized their proximity to it. One young man acted the part of the proverbial chicken and jumped across the path of the car. The others seemed frozen in their tracks. Luckily, the brakes on the car were in fine working order, for the car came to a stop just in time to avoid an accident.

LOTS TO LEARN

Thursday I was turning at the corner of Atlantic and Oneida-sts, hugging close to the right side curb. I met a Ford delivery truck headed south on Oneida-st.

He forced me onto the curb, but fortunately I drove with my car under control so was able to avoid striking him.

I have been driving only three months. The truck-driver has been at the game three or four years. I am of the opinion he has "lots" to learn.

THAT'S HOW HE GOT THE $125

Last Monday a truck farmer living on Route 2 lost $125 on the road. A few hours later a boy came along and found the money. He soon learned the owner's name and started off for the house. When he gave the money to its owner the farmer gave him two apples as a reward.

FIX $15,000 BAIL FOR P. O. ROBBERS

Albright Brothers And McFarland Taken To Milwaukee By Deputies

John McFarland, John Albright and Phillip Albright, of Appleton, alleged robbers of the Dale postoffice, were taken before Charles Oellerich of Oshkosh, federal court commissioner, Wednesday afternoon by Frank Smith and B. W. Hays of Milwaukee, deputy marshals.

The men waived preliminary hearing and were bound over to appear before the federal grand jury in Milwaukee. Bail was fixed at $15,000 each. They were taken to Milwaukee from Oshkosh.

SMITH DELIVERING HIS PLAN TO CITY

Appleton's city plan, accompanied by maps, photographs, reports, recommendations and other data is being delivered officially to the city planning commission at a meeting in the office of Mayor Henry Reuter at 3:30 Friday afternoon by Leonard S. Smith, Madison, city planner.

Eleven copies of the planning report have been prepared by Mr. Smith. The report makes a good-sized and interesting book, with illustrations. Each report is bound up in a leather cover. Eight of these are being presented to the city for its use. Mr. Smith also has a number of large maps covering different projects such as zoning, development of community center, arterial traffic system and others, which the city is to have.

AMENDMENT VOTE UNCHANGED AFTER FINDING RETURNS

Official Count Completed When Missing First Ward Reports Are Found

Missing returns on the vote in the first precinct, Second ward, on the three referendums submitted to the voters at the general election, Nov. 7, now have been found. They do not change materially the vote of the county as a whole on the three questions.

The precinct voted in favor of the amendment permitting cities to bond themselves an additional 5 per cent for the acquisition of public utilities. The vote stood 124 in favor and 89 opposed. The amendment making sixths vote of civil juries sufficient for a verdict was defeated by a vote of 98 to 218. The amendment permitting sheriffs to succeed themselves was also lost by a vote of 145 to 230.

The official county vote on the three amendments now is as follows: On sheriff—4,488 for, 5,079 against; on civil jury—4,819 for, 4,287 against; on municipal bonds—2,014 for, 6,530 against.

First report of the county clerk to the secretary of state on the official canvass did not include the referendum vote of the precinct named, because the returns from it could not be found. The secretary of state replied that it was imperative that the canvass be complete and that he would send a special messenger after the missing returns if they were not sent. A thorough search brought them to light and made it unnecessary to recount the ballots from this precinct.

WANT 100 SLOGANS FOR BEATRICE GAME

Advertising Club Is Working For Effective Publicity For Thanksgiving Event

A quota of 100 slogans for the Appleton-Beatrice football game to be played on Lawrence field Thanksgiving afternoon has been asked by Appleton Advertising club from high school students to be used on signs at ticket-selling places and in advertising copy. H. L. Post of Pettibone-Peabody company has charge of the slogans.

The high school athletic association also is having a poster contest for the game. It will close at 8:15 Monday morning. If more than 25 posters submitted can be used, four prizes will be awarded. The first prize will be $5, the second $3 and the next two $1 apiece. No prizes will be awarded if fewer than 25 posters are submitted by the students.

ON THE SCREEN

Natalie Lane was one of the most popular artist's models in New York because of her wistfully pretty face. The greatest artists were constantly hiding for her services, but instead of her posing was done in the studio of Bryne Travers, whose consuming ambition was to "make" the Paris salon. Travers' particular weakness was pretty women, but although he tried to make love to Natalie, she constantly repulsed him. She had another suitor, equally as persistent, in "Roddy" Warren, the son of the millionaire steel magnate.

No matter where Natalie went, there she found Roddy, waiting for her with his car. And each time Roddy would seize the opportunity to propose. Time after time Natalie said "No," but this did not discourage the youth. It was not until he had promised to give up his idle habits and really do something worth while that Natalie gave her consent.

Roddy's father was in Europe when the marriage took place, but he hurried back, and threatened to cut off Roddy without a cent if he did not give up his wife, who, the elder declared, was below his station in life. But Roddy refused pluckily. Without any income, he and his wife had to move into a cheap boarding house, where Roddy attempted to make his living by writing plays. He was an utter failure at that, and if Natalie had not posed surreptitiously for Travers, they would have starved to death.

Suddenly tragedy entered the lives of the circle—tragedy which forms one of the most exciting episodes in "The Woman He Married," a First National attraction starring Anita Stewart, which is now being shown at the Elks theatre today and Saturday. Fred Niblo directed the feature.

WISCONSIN MAN MAY BE MAYOR OF WASHINGTON, D. C.

Congressman Florian Lampert Of Oshkosh Understood To Have Been Offered Post

Florian Lampert of Oshkosh, who represents the sixth Wisconsin district in congress, appears to be the most probable candidate for mayor of Washington, D. C., according to a Washington dispatch.

The District of Columbia has no franchise and is governed by congress. The chairman of the house District of Columbia committee therefore is in reality mayor of the city.

Lampert ranks high in the district committee and it is understood he can have the place if he wants it.

Lampert is now chairman of the committee on patents. If he declines the place it will go to Congressman Stuart K. Reed of West Virginia.

Once before a Wisconsin man was near the Washington mayoralty, William J. Cary of Milwaukee. Mr. Cary, ranking Republican on the district committee, was defeated for reelection at the same election where Republicans gained control.

Congressman Lampert formerly was councilman of Oshkosh under commission government and has served in county offices also.

AWAIT COUNTY LEVIES TO FIX CITY'S BUDGET

Inasmuch as the apportionment of taxes to be paid by cities, villages and towns of Outagamie-co had not been affixed by the county board Thursday, the finance committee of Appleton common council was not able to complete its budget at its meeting Thursday.

It is expected that the percentage of state and county taxes each political unit is required to pay will be known by Saturday noon before the county board adjourns. The council will meet soon after to decide upon the city budget.

COST $33,553.50 TO MAKE CHANGES IN COURT HOUSE

A. G. Koch Is Named County
Abstractor—Board Hears Report

Proposed changes to be made to the court house came up for consideration at the meeting of the county board on Thursday but action was deferred until Friday. Architect E. A. Wettengel exhibited a sketch of the alterations which he explained briefly. He estimated the cost at $33,553.

A. G. Koch, register of deeds, was appointed county abstractor with the provision that he was to retain all fees which are to consist of 40 cents for each transfer. The annual report of the county superintendent of schools was read and adopted.

A petition relating to the placing of a certain highway in the towns of Liberty and Deer Creek on the county patrol system was referred to a special committee.

An illegal tax petition filed with the county clerk by the department of interior concerning lands in the town of Oneida was referred to the committee on illegal taxes and the district attorney.

Reports and resolutions of towns concerning bridges constructed in Buchanan, Deer Creek, Kaukauna, Ellington and Freedom were adopted. The board adjourned until 9:30 Friday morning.

Miss Hazel Belling has returned from Shepley where she spent a month visiting at the home of her brother.

Pupils As Cops Teaching Right Behavior's Value

The value of police protection and law is being taught to the children of the seventh and eighth grades of the First district school in a practical manner by having two from each grade act as policemen for a period of six weeks. The government in these grades is done almost entirely by the children by means of a model city plan which they carry out. One of the most unpopular jobs of that plan is that of policeman.

That the policemen are the very best friends of a community because they protect the rights of the people who live there is being demonstrated very carefully to the students. At each violation of rules of conduct, the policeman must report the offender to the teacher and then the child is given some penalty for his misdeed. At each offense it is shown to the children where their rights and school lives have been protected by making the offenders make amends for his misconduct.

It is difficult sometimes, according to the teachers, to make the children understand the reason for certain rules. One of the examples used to impress upon their minds the need for regulation of conduct in every community is that of the football game. The children are told that every player enjoys playing football, but that if there were no rules and no officials to see that those rules were enforced, no team would play with another five minutes.

These children in the upper grades are being trained in citizenship by having the conditions in the school government resemble very nearly that of a community. When the children have learned to live rightly in the school community they are expected to grow into the larger community as better citizens.

SHOW FREE MOVIES DEC. 7 ON SUGAR MANUFACTURE

Motion pictures showing the refining of sugar from its raw state as it grows in the fields to the finished product will be shown at the vocational school at 7:30 Thursday evening, Dec. 7, through arrangements completed with the American Sugar Refining company by Appleton Retail Grocers association. The performance was to have been held this month but was postponed.

John A. Green, a representative of the company, will be here to deliver explanatory talks as the pictures are shown. He formerly was president of the National Retail Grocers association.

All grocers of Appleton are being invited to see the picture. The event will be open to the public and it is the hope of the merchants that every seat in the auditorium will be filled for this educational film. No admission will be charged.

ZONE LAW HEARING WILL BE TONIGHT

Residents who have had an opportunity to study the proposed city zoning ordinance recently published in the Post-Crescent will be given further opportunity to express their views in favor of or against its passage at the public hearing to be conducted by the ordinance committee in the council chamber of the city hall at 7:30 Friday evening.

Chairman L. E. Hansen of the ordinance committee will preside over the meeting. Prof. Leonard S. Smith of the University of Wisconsin, Appleton's planning engineer, will be present in person to answer any questions pertaining to what the ordinance will involve.

Matters pertaining to restricted districts, limitation of the height of buildings, the proportion of a lot a residence may occupy, etc., will be aired at the hearing.

Triumphs of M. Jonquille

He looked slightly, like one would add a gesture of compliment to his words.

"Well, monsieur," replied the Marquis. "I shall be charmed to verify details, but you will pardon me if I am moved to ask for your opinion on a certain phase of this mystery. You must have an opinion, monsieur, if you do not have an explanation, in fact."

He turned a little in his seat.

"Monsieur," he said, "how did it happen that when we had fixed this robbery upon Jean Lequex, a member of the Laccas, he admitted it before the court and asked for an immediate sentence? But he would not say what he had done with the necklace or where it was."

"That was a strange position for a man to take, monsieur. He could have nothing from the judge. Why confess? I did not lighten his sentence, and after all, our evidence against him was circumstantial. Why did he not say what he had done with the necklace? The judge would have reduced the sentence. Why conceal it, monsieur, and go for this long period of servitude? Did he hope to escape?"

M. Jonquille spoke with decision.

"He did not."

"Then, monsieur," continued the Marquis, "why did he refuse to say where the necklace was? Of what service would be the necklace to him after twenty years?"

Again M. Jonquille replied directly and with decision.

"Of no use, monsieur; the man did not expect it to be of any use to him."

"Then, monsieur," continued the Marquis, "why in the name of heaven did he not say where the necklace was, and thereby reduce his sentence?"

M. Jonquille seemed to reflect.

"You have asked for my opinion," he said. "I think I can do better than give an opinion. I think I can tell you precisely the reason why Jean Lequex, when he confessed this crime, before the court, refused to say what had become of the necklace."

CHAPTER II

M. Jonquille smiled at the Marquis. "But I must be permitted, monsieur le marquis, to hold my explanation as a sort of wage against the details of your story. The Service de la Surete is filled with admiration for you, you must omit no item of the narrative."

"Ah, how enchanting Mme. Zitzenoff is! How like sunburst of dreams, and the figure of a dryad! One would do murder for her."

The Marquis laughed.

"Murder, monsieur?"

"Ah, yes," replied the Prefect. "Murder or any lesser crime."

The Marquis looked the Prefect frankly in the face.

"You believe this robbery could have been committed for a woman?"

"For whom other could jewels be intended?" replied Jonquille.

The Marquis continued to regard the Prefect with a certain interest.

"You mean," he said, "that the reason why the Apache Jean Lequex did not tell what he had done with the necklace was in fact because he had given it to a woman?"

The Prefect of Police looked at the Marquis with some concern, with, in fact, a certain element of wonder.

"Why, no, monsieur, that is not the reason at all."

The Marquis seemed puzzled.

"Do you generalize, then, to no definite purpose?"

"By no means," replied the Prefect of Police. "I would generalize to the solution of this mystery; and with M. le Marquis' aid, I think I can arrive at it."

Monsieur replied the Marquis could.

"I believe the mystery has already been concluded. I believe its solution seems complete."

"Ah," repeated the Prefect of Police, "is the word precise?"

While it is true that the criminal, Jean Lequex, has confessed before the court and been sentenced to a term of years for the robbery of these jewels, the jewels remain to be discovered."

He paused and regarded the Marquis with an expression of compliment.

"We feel, at the Service de la Surete, that if we could bring to the remaining feature of this matter the same degree of excellent action that was brought to its initial stages, by the Marquis de Chantelle, we should be able to restore the necklace to its rightful owner."

"She returns tomorrow, does she not?"

"Yes, monsieur, it seems a brief time for so difficult an undertaking."

M. Jonquille smiled.

"I regret to intrude upon your pleasure, Marquis, and especially on this, the final night of Mme. Zitzenoff's triumph—amazing woman, adorable woman! One should lose no moment of her excellence."

He paused.

"But monsieur, I cannot adequately admire your excellent handling of this matter unless I am quite certain that I have the details of it correctly. Permit me, monsieur, to repeat these details, and correct me, I beg of you, if I should present them with an item of inaccuracy. I was absent and I have only the memory of inferences."

The Prefect of Police rested his arm on the seat of the box, while the Marquis fingered his monocle idly, twisting the silk cord. He assumed an attitude of careless attention, and M. Jonquille went on:

"On the night of the 15th of February, Monsieur le Marquis, opening the door of his apartment at a late hour, saw a slip of paper beside the door. At the moment the Marquis gave this item no attention; it did not impress him. It was late, the servants having retired, and the Marquis withdrew to his bedroom alone."

"It appears, however, that discussions of the mind occur to all of us even to the Marquis de Chantelle on the border of dreamland. It occurred to him that this slip of paper was a memorandum by the congerie to call the attention of the Marquis upon his arrival to some inquiry that had been made for him. The Marquis, however, did not arise at that hour to verify this impression, but in the morning when he awoke, he remembered it, going into the drawing-room in his dressing-gown and slippers—it was before the arrival of his valet—he found the slip of paper where it had remained as though it had been slipped under the door."

"The Marquis was surprised when he came to examine this bit of paper. It contained some numbers written with a pencil and the words in a strained, unformed hand: 'The combination of the safe of the Marquis Chantelle.'"

"Monsieur turned at once to the small safe which is built into the wall of the apartment after the American fashion. He tried the combination written on the slip of paper, and found it correct, opened the safe and discovered that the necklace had disappeared."

The Prefect of Police hesitated in the narrative and addressed an inquiry.

"It is true, monsieur," he said, "that you did not know the combination of this safe; that the combination was known only to your wife, the Marquise, and that more than once, for example at the Cafe Anclaus on the 14th of December, at midnight, when any creature from the under world of Paris might have been present, you spoke of the danger of keeping this necklace in a small private safe in the apartment when it should be deposited with a banker? But in these objections the Marquis always returned the same answer—that she alone had the combination of the safe? This is true?"

"It is true," replied the Marquis. "But it was not discreet, as after-events have demonstrated. Perhaps by these discussions we gave information of the whereabouts of this necklace to this Apache Lequex."

The Prefect of Police made a vague gesture and continued to speak.

"The Marquis, upon discovery of the robbery, at once notified the Service de la Surete, old Fornoau and agent arrived immediately. Upon examination of the bit of paper, it proved to be a slip bearing the name in print of Moore-Poole & Co., a firm of American brokers in Paris."

"Old Fornoau at once suggested that the robbery must have been committed by some one from the firm of these brokers, probably an American, since the slip of paper must have come from some one employed in that establishment."

"But here the Marquis Chantelle, showing an intelligence superior to that of this officer of the Surete, pointed out that no one would come on such an adventure bringing with him a piece of paper, and especially an indelible piece of paper, upon which to set down such a memorandum. It was far more likely that the piece of paper had been acquired somewhere in the apartment."

He then suggested that an inquiry be made to discover whether some one from this American firm of Moore-Poole & Co. had not at one time occupied an apartment in the building."

"She returns tomorrow, does she not?"

"Yes, monsieur, it seems a brief time for so difficult an undertaking."

M. Jonquille smiled.

"I regret to intrude upon your pleasure, Marquis, and especially on this, the final night of Mme. Zitzenoff's triumph—amazing woman, adorable woman! One should lose no moment of her excellence."

He paused.

"But monsieur, I cannot adequately admire your excellent handling of this matter unless I am quite certain that I have the details of it correctly. "Old Fornoau at once suggested that the robbery must have been committed by some one from the firm of these brokers, probably an American, since the slip of paper must have come from some one employed in that establishment."

"But here the Marquis Chantelle, showing an intelligence superior to that of this officer of the Surete, pointed out that no one would come on such an adventure bringing with him a piece of paper, and especially an indelible piece of paper, upon which to set down such a memorandum. It was far more likely that the piece of paper had been acquired somewhere in the apartment."

He then suggested that an inquiry be made to discover whether some one from this American firm of Moore-Poole & Co. had not at one time occupied an apartment in the building."

"She returns tomorrow, does she not?"

"Yes, monsieur, it seems a brief time for so difficult an undertaking."

M. Jonquille smiled.

"I regret to intrude upon your pleasure, Marquis, and especially on this, the final night of Mme. Zitzenoff's triumph—amazing woman, adorable woman! One should lose no moment of her excellence."

He paused.

"But monsieur, I cannot adequately admire your excellent handling of this matter unless I am quite certain that I have the details of it correctly. Permit me, monsieur, to repeat these details, and correct me, I beg of you, if I should present them with an item of inaccuracy. I was absent and I have only the memory of inferences."

The Prefect of Police rested his arm on the seat of the box, while the Marquis fingered his monocle idly, twisting the silk cord. He assumed an attitude of careless attention, and M. Jonquille went on:

"On the night of the 15th of February, Monsieur le Marquis, opening the door of his apartment at a late hour, saw a slip of paper beside the door. At the moment the Marquis gave this item no attention; it did not impress him. It was late, the servants having retired, and the Marquis withdrew to his bedroom alone."

"It appears, however, that discussions of the mind occur to all of us even to the Marquis de Chantelle on the border of dreamland. It occurred to him that this slip of paper was a memorandum by the congerie to call the attention of the Marquis upon his arrival to some inquiry that had been made for him. The Marquis, however, did not arise at that hour to verify this impression, but in the morning when he awoke, he remembered it, going into the drawing-room in his dressing-gown and slippers—it was before the arrival of his valet—he found the slip of paper where it had remained as though it had been slipped under the door."

"The Marquis was surprised when he came to examine this bit of paper. It contained some numbers written with a pencil and the words in a strained, unformed hand: 'The combination of the safe of the Marquis Chantelle.'"

"Monsieur turned at once to the small safe which is built into the wall of the apartment after the American fashion. He tried the combination written on the slip of paper, and found it correct, opened the safe and discovered that the necklace had disappeared."

The Prefect of Police hesitated in the narrative and addressed an inquiry.

"It is true, monsieur," he said, "that you did not know the combination of this safe; that the combination was known only to your wife, the Marquise, and that more than once, for example at the Cafe Anclaus on the 14th of December, at midnight, when any creature from the under world of Paris might have been present, you spoke of the danger of keeping this necklace in a small private safe in the apartment when it should be deposited with a banker? But in these objections the Marquis always returned the same answer—that she alone had the combination of the safe? This is true?"

The Prefect of Police made a vague gesture and continued to speak.

"The Marquis, upon discovery of the robbery, at once notified the Service de la Surete, old Fornoau and agent arrived immediately. Upon examination of the bit of paper, it proved to be a slip bearing the name in print of Moore-Poole & Co., a firm of American brokers in Paris."

Her Health

Married—But Happy

By Virginia Lynch Maxwell.

CHARLOTTE eyed the apartment house with approval. Then she turned to Billy and raised inquiring eyes, hoping to find the disgruntled expression gone from his face.

"I'm sure, dear, we'll find just what we're looking for here," she remarked in her sweetest tone. "The ad reads that they have four large, handsome rooms and two baths. Let's go in."

Billy followed her up the stone steps that led to the vestibule and Charlotte rang the outer bell. The next moment the door was clicking and they were in the spacious lobby. A colored boy gave her a moment of his attention from the busy switchboard.

"I want to see the apartment you are advertising to let," Charlotte said.

"It's on the top floor, ma'am."

"That's enough," interrupted Billy with a gesture of despair. "We don't want it, then. I'm not particularly keen on walking up seven flights of stairs every evening when I get home tired out."

"But, dear," said Charlotte in an impatient tone, "they've elevator service here. You won't have to walk up."

Billy laughed cynically. "You don't if ever you can catch one of these fellows awake. But I know these places. They promise you anything in the world until they get you and your deposit money. Then you can whistle for the service they've guaranteed."

As Billy finished speaking the boy leaned over to put the keys back in their place, only too eager, it seemed, to avoid the necessity of disturbing himself to show the vacant apartment.

"I think we'd better look at the place, anyway," said Charlotte with a final effort. "There are so few apartments with large rooms these days that we simply cannot afford to overlook anything."

Billy followed her into the elevator and the colored boy took them up to the seventh floor.

They had looked at all sorts of apartments for two days and Charlotte had been discouraged. Billy had insisted that they take a house in the suburbs, but after the Summer at the bungalow Charlotte had insisted upon a modern apartment in the heart of town.

Billy hung behind as the boy led them into the long corridor from which the rooms opened into each other.

"It's wonderful; don't you think so, dear?" Charlotte asked eagerly, turning to Billy with an expression of delight. "Here are four wide windows overlooking the avenue, and this delightful private corridor and the baths just outside this wonderful bedroom, and—"

"Where's the kitchen?" asked Billy, breaking in on Charlotte's enthusiasm.

"Oh, yes, the kitchen," said Charlotte, turning toward the boy once again.

"Ain't no kitchen, ma'am. They don't low no cooking in this here house. It's what you call these new-fangled non-housekeeping apartments."

"Non-housekeeping!" exclaimed Billy. "What the dickens do they mean? If you can't live in the blamed place, what's the use of taking it?"

"It's so much more pleasant to dine out," said Charlotte with a little twinkle in her eyes as she saw Billy's expression of horror, "that people don't bother cooking at home much any more, dear. It's the community dining-room spirit we got used to during the war."

"Do you think I'm going to fall for that stuff? It's a money-making scheme to get you down into the restaurant on the first floor, so's they can get you there for what they haven't taken in rent."

The colored boy burst into a merry peal of laughter. It provoked Charlotte that Billy should speak his thoughts so frankly in front of strangers.

"Of course," she said, trying to change the subject and make the place attractive to Billy's eye, "one can get breakfast over an electric grill. There's really no objection to that, I suppose?"

"The agent says they ain't no cooking at all allowed," volunteered the boy. "But I expect you can get away with it when there's no one around."

"Awwfully nice of you to tip us off that way, son, but I'm not accustomed to doing anything on the sneak and I'm too old to begin now," sneered Billy.

"They all do it, boss," said the colored boy apologetically.

"Then that's a blamed good reason why we won't. Pay a fabulous rental and then have those agent birds tell me what I can do in my own home! No, sirree, not for me. And I don't think you'd like that stunt a bit, Lottie."

Charlotte was almost on the verge of tears. If Billy did feel that way about it she could not understand why he made his opinion such public property. After all, wasn't it their own personal affair, just between themselves, where and how they would live?

"Certainly not," agreed Charlotte, anxious to get out of the place and tell Billy what she really thought of his attitude.

"I knew you'd get over this fool idea of wanting to live like this. Now I'll again suggest a suburban house," said Billy.

"Suburban house?" questioned Charlotte, a look of disappointment in her eyes. "Well, we'll look at them, anyway, dear. I don't really see any harm in just looking."

The Business Woman Talks

THE girl who would succeed in business will find many obstacles to overcome. Much depends upon the way she looks at the stepping stones—whether they would flag her ambition and change her course or help her on to her coveted goal.

Girls who graduate from school this year and enter the business field for the first time will be at a loss to know the fundamental rules of the game unless they have been especially trained.

From a business woman who has learned the ways of success through the hard school of experience come a few helpful suggestions.

First, one must know definitely what she wishes to achieve. So many girls enter business and ramble from one job to another in the hope of eventually finding something they may like. This attitude spells disappointment and disaster before one begins.

Each of us has a natural liking for some particular kind of work. Many women make the mistake of choosing a certain kind of work for which they have no talent because they have idealized it.

Know what you like to do best by following your natural inclinations, and you will have found the first key to the golden door. Do you like to cook, to sew, to tend babies, to clerk, or are you gifted with imagination, deft hands for nursing, or do you like books and figures? Study yourself. You will know better than anyone else what you like to do. Then endeavor to get a place that will give you an opportunity to realize your dream later on.

Many successful women have begun as clerks in an office or store and worked their way to the top notch places. But this has occurred often through accident. Girls who have been placed by circumstance in a fertile environment have taken root to the work and discovered after success that it was what they might have voluntarily chosen. The percentage of women who have found themselves failures is large because of this hit-and-miss way of choosing one's life work.

It is a clever plan to use all efforts to obtain a position, no matter how menial at first, in the environment in which you care to grow. College women are taking the problem of running a house as a serious profession. And it is indeed so, because every business in the world depends upon the home.

When you have found the kind of work you like to do, study to improve yourself. Specialize! This is an age of knowing how to do one thing well. And she who can do one thing better than most people will always find a high market for her services.

Serve Rice for Warmth

Browned Rice.

Wash one cup of rice through several waters, put on boiler with four quarts of boiling water; add the rice slowly—and it must boil constantly—then allow to boil rapidly for twenty-five minutes; pour into colander and blanch with several quarts of boiling water; sprinkle one teaspoonful of salt over the rice and shake; spread on platter, cover top with one cupful of brown sugar or maple sugar. Place in moderate oven for five minutes; serve while warm with milk.

Rice Giddle Cakes.

1 cup milk.
1 tablespoon shortening.
1 teaspoonful salt, 1 egg.
1 cup flour.
2 teaspoons baking powder.
Mix rice, milk, melted shortening, salt and well-beaten eggs; stir in flour and baking powder, which have been sifted together; mix well. Bake on hot, slightly greased griddle, turning only once.

Rice Croquettes.

2 eggs.
3 tablespoons milk.
1 teaspoon salt.
1 tablespoon sugar.
1 tablespoon butter.
1 tablespoon chopped parsley.
Wash rice several times and boil with two quarts boiling water thirty minutes; drain well and put into top of double boiler; add one egg beaten with two tablespoons milk, salt, sugar, butter and parsley; cook until egg thickens; cool and shape into cones, balls or oval cakes; dip into egg beaten up with one tablespoon milk. Roll in bread crumbs and fry in deep hot fat until brown.

Modes for the Moderate Purse

THE moderate purse will find many models from which to select this year—models that combine, with a clever touch, the art of the new lines with the practical value which the moderate purse must consider.

There are innumerable pointers which light the way in selecting the styles that will remain in vogue. Styles are changing overnight. And women find it difficult to keep up with the endless chain of detail which marks the vogue from season to season.

There is a happy medium in fashion which, when discovered, proves a boon to the slim purse. Select your gowns with an eye to silhouette. That is one way to avoid having to purchase new ones before the season is over. The clever woman who looks at the lines of a frock first, then at the material and trimming, will find her wardrobe quite ready to withstand remaking when fashion decrees a new style.

There is a very practical model being offered in the shops, suited for street wear, for tea-time or for business. It is fashioned on the straight-line style, with high, rounded collar, and sleeves that are in wide, mandarin fashion. For its trimming it boasts wide rows of brilliant braid, stitched flat and running in straight lines from collar to hem.

This model is an example of the happy medium in style which offers wide possibility for making over when silhouettes change. The sleeves may be easily remodelled into narrower or wider ones, and the neckline may be cut to suit the whim of Dame Fashion next season. Belts have a way of changing, too, so that a straight-line

Household Hints

IF you cannot have a sewing room, try having a sewing bag complete. It must contain all essentials such as needles, thread, darning cotton, pins, etc., so that there is no delay when a stitch in time is required.

Rid your house of all unnecessary storage to prevent fire. Insurance companies claim that most of the residential fires are begun by ignition of cellar or attic storage.

A crochet pin cushion is excellent for holding hairpins at night. Both fine and heavy pins may be thrust into the holes and kept from scattering about the dressing table.

When broiling steak turn it at once when one side begins to brown. Searing both sides before the steak is thoroughly cooked will keep in the juices.

Place a pan of water beneath your bowl when baking custard. The water will keep the custard from cracking.

When whipping whites of eggs chill your platter first and the eggs will whip more quickly.

If you have oversweetened any of your dishes, add a little salt to counteract the sugar.

model may have its waistline where it will.

Touch your simple frock with a little brilliant embroidery here and there and give it eclat. Sleeve tops, cuffs and panels may be trimmed with a motif done in various colors, such as the peasant embroidery, which has gained such popularity this season.

A simple frock that boasts side or front panels is an excellent selection for the moderate purse. This type of thing looks well on most figures and offers possibility for changes throughout the season.

Paris says that wide silk girdles will be worn again, with one hip holding the girdle wide and the other narrowed into a bow. These girdles add a means of avoiding monotony where one or two frocks must serve the full season.

Black and brown, with a bottle-green now and then, comprise the color schedule for Autumn wear, it would seem, according to Paris dispatches. Although, judging from the display seen in American shops, all shades of brown are in the running, from the palest of biscuit tones to the dark tete de negre, which suits, coats and street frocks find so favorable for their adaptation.

If you want to give an ordinary frock a touch of smartness, monkey fur serves well. It is found on many of the costly afternoon frocks or silk or tricotine in its natural gray and black, and once again we find it edging sleeves and panels of evening frocks, but here it is color harmony with the light shade of the gown itself.

Heart Home

My Secrets of Charm

By Marilyn Miller.

THE right sort of make-up cannot be offensive to the most fastidious. But the woman who is careless in her selection and application of make-up brings upon herself, deservingly, the criticism of a beauty-loving world.

There are certain little tricks of selecting and applying the make-up which are known to stage beauties because they have had the years of experience to discover them. I experimented with many grades and kinds of make-up until I found at last the right cosmetics for my particular complexion.

That is what every woman must do for herself if she would learn the true art of making up. There are a few hints which may be taken as a foundation knowledge and the individual problems worked out from them.

Be careful of the cosmetics you choose. This is my first advice on the subject of make-up. Poor cosmetics are generally cheap. But there are many grades of rouge and powder that do not boast an exclusive perfume odor which are retailed at the toilet counters for a very reasonable figure. Select your creams, powders and rouge from a reputable concern, one which does not hesitate to place its name on the packages.

To heighten the beauty of your skin you will require a jar of cleansing cream (preferably with a slight lemon flavoring), a jar of vanishing cream, a box of thin powder, a box of heavier powder matched perfectly with the tint of your natural complexion, a lip-stick, eyebrow pencil and some dry or liquid rouge for the cheeks.

This does seem like a large order to apply to the complexion. But there is an art in selecting your cosmetics as well as in applying them. In the trick of grating the make-up on exactly right lies the charm of its use.

Of course, the skin must be thoroughly cleansed with the lemon cream before any make-up may be applied. If your complexion is badly in need of repair, I suggest that you give it a thorough cleansing, first with the lemon cream, then with warm water and pure soap suds, finally rinsing away all the soapy solution. Close your pores by wiping the face with a solution made of one glass of cold water to which has been added a tablespoon of witch hazel.

Is your complexion inclined to be oily? Then I advise the use of a liquid powder in place of the thin powder which is the foundation for make-up. The liquid powder is more drying and forms an excellent base for the heavier powder which is applied after the liquid has dried and been smoothed. This second powder must be matched to your individual complexion. It is found in flesh, white, brunette and naturelle shades. An application of this is smoothed evenly, taking care that the eyelids and under-crown portions are not neglected.

Rouge? What mistakes have been committed in its name. Rouge is the one cosmetic that must be handled most delicately. Try out the various shades of rouge until you have discovered the one exactly suited to your skin. In this way only will you be able to determine what rouge is made for you, the one rouge that will not appear artificial.

Compact powder rouge has been the vogue for a long while, and this perhaps because it is offered in shades ranging from the palest pink to the deepest purple. If you are blonde, select your rouge of the light varieties. Brown hair and a medium complexion takes the rouge known as "medium," while black hair and olive skin must cling to the deeper shades ranging from dark red to purple. The rouge appears purple in its container, but when applied it is a glorious tone in harmony with the Oriental type of beauty.

Lip rouge should be preferably of the grease variety. It, too, comes in shades, and one must watch carefully lest she may select her face rouge of the right shade and then spoil the picture by selecting a lip rouge too dark or too light. If your lips are full, richly red and healthy, do not cover them with colored stick rouge. I advise the use of the colorless lip-stick to keep them moist.

For Titan blondes and those whose skin is of very fine texture there is no rouge quite so beautiful as the liquid rouge which is made purely of vegetable product and delicately fragrant for lips and cheeks as well.

When Company Drops In

THE hostess who is resourceful need have no fearful moments about adding a dessert to her simple dinner menu should company drop in unexpectedly.

It is well to have on hand some of the basic ingredients by which a dessert may be quickly made to bridge over this emergency. A box of cocoa, lemon and vanilla flavoring, a small carton of coconut, some canned fruit and some raisins are materials which may be kept an indefinite length of time without spoiling, and ones with which many quick desserts may be made. A carton of ordinary marshmallows kept in a cool, dry place, will keep indefinitely, and may be used for a fancy dessert sauce when melted.

Here are a few quick desserts which any one may make.

Raisin Surprise.

Place a slice of toasted cake on a plate for each portion, and over this place some chopped raisins. Melt a few of the marshmallows in a double boiler, add a drop of lemon juice and a few shakes of powdered cinnamon, and spread this sauce over the cake.

Chocolate Pudding.

Stir two heaping tablespoons of cocoa with a little cold water until it becomes a smooth paste. To a pint of milk add the dissolved cocoa, a pinch of salt, a half cup of sugar and a tablespoon of dissolved cornstarch. Boil together, stirring constantly, until the mixture is thick enough to set. Remove from the fire, add a half teaspoonful of vanilla and pour into an earthen bowl until set. Serve with cornstarch sauce or whipped cream.

Southern Pudding.

Place a layer of spice cake in a deep dish, and over it spread a hard sauce made by rubbing a quantity of butter and sugar together. Flavor the sauce with vanilla and spread in mounds over the cake. A light lemon sauce is then prepared and served warm when the cake is cut into individual portions.

Fruit Splendor.

Canned fruits are used for this dessert when fresh ones are not available. And the variety may be purchased in one can under the label of "fruit salad." The fruit is emptied into an earthen dish, spread with cocoanut and a light meringue. Set it in the oven for a few moments until the meringue tips are browned. This dessert is usually served with small cookies.

What Did I Do?

EVERY one of us, at some time or other, has an embarrassing moment. At the time, who of us would not give everything we possessed to know just what to do to overcome this panicky feeling? Most of us flounder through it somehow, yet the quick wits of some of our well-poised celebrities may serve as a guide when in distress. Here is what Marguerite de la Motte had to tell us when we asked her about her embarrassing moment and what she did to get through it.

"I shall never forget my most embarrassing moment, which happened upon the occasion when I made a personal appearance in a motion picture theatre. I was to make a speech, which I had carefully prepared beforehand with lots of nice adjectives and flowery phrases, and do an interpretative dance. I was awfully tired. Also I was frightfully nervous, for though I had danced in public I had never made a speech, nor had

I ever been an actress on the legitimate stage.

"So it is not surprising that when I stepped out on that stage, which in reality was quite small, but which appeared to me to be about a mile across, and looked down from the footlights to that dim sea of faces, my speech just evaporated in thin air. I forgot every single word of it and stood there for a moment, gulping, trying to think of something to say and frenziedly contemplating flight."

"Well, if I can't make a nice speech like a politician," I thought, "I can at least dance."

"So I signalled to the orchestra and began twirling on my toes. Immediately that I felt myself whirling in the old steps my poise returned, so that at the completion of my dance and upon receiving riotous applause I could return and give my entire speech, word for word, correctly. It was a case of putting the cart before the horse, but it worked out all right, though for a few moments there I prayed that the stage floor would suddenly open and swallow me up."

BELL OF SUNKEN SHIP
IN MILWAUKEE PRESS CLUB

By Associated Press.
Milwaukee, Wis.—Among the many relics to be found in the Milwaukee Press club, where hundreds of signatures of presidents, congressmen, prominent actors, writers and artists who have been in Milwaukee, have been placed in separate panels around the walls of the club, there is to be found a 800-pound bronze bell of the wrecked U. S. S. Milwaukee, given to the local club by special act of congress. Dec. 13 the bell will be dedicated with appropriate ceremony in the clubrooms.

The club and its members through the medium of their publications took a leading part in the movement to have a naval vessel named after this city.

The cruiser went on the rocks off Eureka, Calif., Jan. 13, 1917 and was so completely wrecked that it was stricken from the navy lists June 23, 1919, and ordered sold as junk.

Charles W. Lamb of the Press club conceived the idea of bringing to Milwaukee some relic of the cruiser which bore the city's name and it was decided nothing could be more representative or portable than the ship's bell, and that no resting place could be more appropriate than the Press club.

Where can you get Good Coffee?

Why, at the Edgewater Beach Hotel in Chicago, when you sit at breakfast in their wonderful dining room with its low French windows looking out on the ever-changing lake; or when you have your after dinner coffee out on their lawn beneath the stars, that's where you get good coffee.

Or you can get good coffee in your own home if you use the same coffee that the Edgewater Beach Hotel uses, which is Thomas J. Webb Coffee, of course.

Half the famous places in America where the coffee is so good as to make you remember it afterward are exclusively using Thomas J. Webb Coffee.

Order it now and have one of the chief delights of the Edgewater Beach in your own home. Your grocer has it.

Football Is More Than Mere Recreation Among High Schools Of West

Incident In Which Beatrice Star Figured Is Reminiscent Of Jesse James Days Of The "Wild And Woolly"

Out in Nebraska where the Beatrice high school football team makes its headquarters, they do up things pretty brown in a football way. Rivalry between high schools is as intense as between any group of colleges in the country and sometimes they go to rather uncalculated extremes in getting the "dope" on the other fellow.

A few days ago the papers of the west carried a story about an attack on Glenn Layton, captain of the Beatrice eleven which goes to show that the spirit of Jesse James still is rampant in the "wild and woolly" west.

According to this story, Layton was slugged and robbed a few days ago while returning to his home from football practice. He was carrying home the signals which his team was to use in the game with Lincoln, Neb. to determine the state scholastic championship. These signals were taken from him while he was unconscious. When teams or partisans go to that extent it is plain that football is more than just a recreation in Nebraska.

Beatrice has one of the finest playing fields in the west for a high school. It is the gift of wealthy railroad builders. An ornamental wall surrounds it and it has seating capacity for 10,000 persons, with ample room for football and baseball. The field is so well drained that within an hour after the heaviest rain it is ready for use.

With these home conditions, Beatrice has been able to develop some great football teams. Appleton is hitting off a big chunk in tackling it here on Thanksgiving day.

APPLETONIANS BEAT MANAWA VOLLEYBALLERS

The Y. M. C. A. volleyball team was victor over the Manawa business men's volleyball team 5 to 7 in the game played Thursday night in the Manawa high school. The Appleton team was composed of C. O. Gresh, captain, Guy Barlow, Roy Maurer, Fred Aerell, Fred Schlinz, Louis Freude, G. L. Carleton and Jim Moore. The Manawa business men will invade Appleton sometime in the near future for a return game.

California Figures To Repeat Win

BY BILLY EVANS

California is banking on three of its veteran stars, Erb, Muller and Nichols to insure a win over Stanford when Andy Smith's eleven clashes with its greatest rival at Palo Alto, Cal., on Nov. 25.

On the coast the Stanford-California game takes on all the color of a clash between Harvard, Yale or Princeton in the east. This despite the fact that Stanford for several years has not been able to offer very stern opposition.

While Stanford didn't look very strong at the opening of the season the eleven has been brought along by slow stages until it is now believed to be in shape to offer California a real argument.

STANFORD ENGAGES WARNER

Last winter Stanford in an effort to get on an equality with California engaged the services of Glenn Warner famous coach of Pittsburg University. It was a ten-strike for Stanford and is certain to show results shortly.

Warner is still under contract at Pittsburg and is coaching there this year. However he is installing his methods at Stanford through the medium of two of his former star players Andy Kerr and "Tiny" Thornhill.

Thornhill assisted Charley Moran at Centre College last year. Thornhill is a line coach and Head Coach Moran says it was Thornhill's great work with the Centre forwards that enabled them to outplay Harvard and make a Centre victory possible.

Coach Andy Smith of California isn't worrying about the preparations that Stanford is making to eventually capture football honors on the coast. Smith says his team of this year is even better than last and that California will win sure.

It is again the intention to bring a team from the east to California to play on New Year's Day at Pasadena. Unless Stanford should upset the dope which isn't probable, California will again do the entertaining.

EAST AND WEST TO MEET AT BAY

College Stars From Atlantic Coast Compose Badger Lineup

Green Bay—East will meet west Sunday afternoon at the league ball park when Green Bay and Milwaukee have it out in a National Football league game which will have a direct bearing on the state professional football championship.

When Plunkett and McGuirk, the Milwaukee football magnates started the ball a-rolling this fall, they made a trip eastward and rounded up a dozen former college stars many of whom had received All American recognition. And this is the aggregation they will pit against the Bays in the game here Sunday afternoon.

POLLARD IS STAR

A glance over the lineup of the Milwaukee team shows a raft of pigskin chasers who have been headlines in the east for many seasons. Fritz Pollard won an All American berth while at Brown. This colored player is one of the greatest open field runners of all time. He plays halfback.

His other partners in the backfield will be "Dinger" Doane, Brown, fullback; Al Greer, Holy Cross, halfback; Pudge Garrett, Rutgers, halfback; Bigbee, Virginia, halfback; Purdy, Brown, and Mooney, Georgetown, quarterbacks.

TWO CLASSY ENDS

The giant Robinson, Rutgers, All American, and Alexander, Rutgers, are slated for duty on the wings. They were team mates on the eastern eleven for three years.

Webb, of Dartmouth and Copely of Akron "U" will play the tackles. Both of these men go over 200 pounds and can hold their own with the best of them.

NEW LONDON BESTS GREENVILLE BOWLERS

New London got the best of Greenville in the match rolled Thursday night on the Arcade alleys between the Soda Grill five of New London and the Greenville quintet. The New Londoners won two out of three games. High marks were tallied by Knapp, Vaughn and Strutz. The highest single game of 203 was rolled by Stewart.

Slit Panties Are Taboo At Beloit And Ripon Game

Beloit—Rodolph Valentino "Toreador" trousers—the petite panties with the slit sides, plaid padding and beau brummel button trims—are to be taboo at the Beloit-Ripon football game at Rockford on Saturday. Beloit's bewickered fans have vowed that if Ripon rooters appear clad in the prescribed apparel, they will be detoured.

Ripon men affected the trousers at the recent Ripon-Carroll game, and Beloiters are looking for a repetition. As Beloit will have some 300 men at the game, and Ripon will have almost as many, Rockford police are taking extra precautions.

MAROONS VOICE SENTIMENT AGAINST LARGER STADIUM

By Associated Press

Chicago—An editorial printed in the recent issue of the Daily Maroon, official student publication of the University of Chicago, declaring that "active members of the university and faculty members who do not want a large stadium," was the subject of comment among football fans.

"The huge crowds which have flocked to Stagg field this season," the editorial declared, "are exceptional."

Concluding the editorial stated that the "university is not a part of Chicago and that it receives no money from Chicago or Illinois, except in the form of tuition, such as is paid by students from other states and countries."

"Hence," it added, "the university need not cater to the football tastes of the public."

SUPERIOR WOULD PLAY MARINETTE AT GREEN BAY

By Associated Press

Superior—If they win at LaCrosse Thanksgiving day the Superior Central high school football team would accept an invitation to play Marinette for state championship honors at Green Bay providing a satisfactory financial agreement can be made, according to Fred Carson, the local coach. Appreciating that Superior will meet tough opposition Coach Carson is putting his players through an intensive campaign for LaCrosse. While several of the regulars are suffering colds the general physical condition of the team is good.

LINCOLN PLAYERS WIN SOCCER TITLE

Lincoln school is champion of the Y. M. C. A. Grade School Soccer league as the result of its 6 to 2 victory over the First ward in the game on Franklin field Thursday evening. This was the final series of games to untangle the triple tie in the league.

The first half ended 2 to 2. A strong comeback in the last period gave the Lincoln players the other goals.

Lincoln school team is made up of the following players: Albert Selig, Elmore Larson, captain, Albert Selig, Charles Christen, Lawrence Christian, Claude Thompson, Arthur Engel, Robert Matz, Byron Bowly, Alden Fidler, Harold Reinke and Harold Hammer, Ralph Sell, Francis McAllister and Alfred Gebholm.

MARQUETTE LINE STILL UNCROSSED

Hilltoppers Begin Training For Thanksgiving Day Game With South Dakota

Milwaukee—Football critics who are singing the praises of teams that have gone through the season without having their goal line crossed had better keep on eye on Murray's Hilltoppers. In eight games played so far the Marquette line has withstood all attempts to puncture it for a touchdown. The only points scored by an opponent were made by Detroit in the homecoming game last Saturday when Hogan drop kicked from the twenty-five yard line.

Each successive game has seen the Hilltop forward wall show greater strength. Against Detroit, the Marquette line was at its best. It allowed the great visiting backs only three first downs through the line. Passes accounted for the other two first downs.

South Dakota State, which comes here on Thanksgiving day, will not have the training backs that Detroit had, and the Hilltoppers stand an excellent chance of completing the season with an uncrossed goal line.

Work for the game with the Plainsmen started Wednesday.

All of the men came out of the game with Detroit in good shape, and Murray will not be hindered with any injured players in preparing for the game.

Marquette will be a top heavy favorite to win.

YE FISHING AND HUNTING COLUMN

By M. J. V. Fose

One hundred thirty-five million fish were rescued this season by fish rescue crews working under Superintendent of Wisconsin Fisheries C. F. Culler at LaCrosse who states that the above number of fish were rescued from land-locked sloughs by the fish rescue crews operating between Prescott and Rock Island during the season just closed. The territory embraces 50 miles front up the Mississippi river.

A central station that was authorized by congress some time ago will be built in the near future at Riverside park, LaCrosse, where the fish rescue and clam propagation officials will have their headquarters, after the buildings are placed in service and their work will then be systematized and simplified as much as possible.

The new building is to be located at the upper end of Riverside park, fronting southerly with an aquarium on the west side 150 feet from the shore of the Mississippi river. The fish rescue station will follow in line and on the east side, the garage will be located. The building is to be constructed of hollow tile cement and will add considerable beauty to the park.

The aquarium will be the only one of its kind ever built by the fisheries bureau of the chamber of commerce of the United States. Every variety of fish will be shown in the building and it is planned to erect an outside cement basin in which will be shown the rougher varieties.

Mr. Culler has just returned from a trip in the south and has started fish rescue work in Louisiana. Several of the best men employed in this work at LaCrosse were taken south to instruct southerners in the art of saving fish caught in land locked poe'les.

Fisher And Tappert To Get In Game With Beatrice Next Week

High School Gridders Expect Fierce Battle On Turkey Day —Fisher's Broken Rib Won't Keep Him Out

Showing a better spirit than at any time this year, Appleton high school gridders are putting in long hours preparing for their second annual tilt with Beatrice on Lawrence field Thursday afternoon. Reports from the west indicate the Nebraskaans have a powerful organization which is primed for the Appleton struggle, hoping to make it two wins in as many years.

Fisher, the tackle who suffered a broken rib in the clash with Green Bay last Saturday, is out for practice and probably will be in the game next Thursday. He is wearing a specially made protector and apparently is little inconvenienced by the cracked bone. Another encouraging thing is the fact that "Bill" Tappert, the huge fullback, will be in the struggle. Wisconsin high schools have refused to permit Tappert to play because, they allege, he is over age, although local high school authorities have affidavits to show that he will not be 20 years old for several months. Beatrice officials accepted these proofs and permitted him to get into the game.

All the rest of Coach Denney's men are in good shape. Briese's leg, which was almost entirely out of commission when the Blue and Orange played in Nebraska last year, is in good shape now and he should be able to remain in the entire game.

Coach Denney is concentrating his defense on Purdy, Beatrice's great quarterback. He is a whole team in himself and it so happens that he has several stars to help him. In Beatrice, Beatrice has one of the best high school halfbacks in the west.

Interest among the fans in the approaching struggle is growing. There is every reason to believe that if the weather is at all favorable Lawrence field is scarcely huge enough to hold the huge crowd which will want to see the battle.

RULES STIFF GUARANTEE FOR DETROIT FIGHT CLUBS

By Associated Press

Detroit—Organizations staging boxing bouts in Detroit hereafter will be required to post a $5,000 bond to guarantee the sum named in contracts with boxers under a ruling announced by C. P. Campau, boxing commissioner. The order was issued as a result of the failure of a newly organized athletic club to meet the guarantee agreed upon for a ten round bout.

OSMAN, NEXT FOE OF HILL, IN SHARP MAT TEST TONIGHT

Chicago Fans Will See Turk Take On Bill Demetral In Finish Battle

Appleton wrestling fans will get a line on Kara Osman and Bill Demetral, two well known wrestlers who are scheduled to wrestle George Hill here during the winter, when those two men get together in a Chicago arena tonight. They will wrestle in the Star and Garter theatre. Osman is rated a faster, stronger and cleverer man than Demetral and Chicago fans believe the latter will be eliminated from any more serious consideration on the mat in the Windy City. Demetral has been wrestling for 20 years.

Osman is to grapple with Hill here Nov. 29, Promoter Elmer Johnston says. He was booked to meet the local champ here last year but Hill's leg went bad on him the day before the bout and it was necessary to secure a substitute. Hill figures Osman ought to be about as good as Freiberg and therefore is getting down to brass tacks and training diligently. If he can dispose of the Chicagoan he will have a good right to take on Freiberg again and before a home crowd. Osman weighs about 205 pounds and Hill is scaling about 195.

BLUE JAYS GET TIGHTER HOLD IN KIMBERLY LEAGUE

Canaries Close On Trail Of Leaders As Result Of Victory Over Orioles

Kimberly—The Blue Jays strengthened their hold on first place in the Kimberly Business Men's league by defeating the Sparrows three straight, but the Canaries jumped right on the Blue Jays' heels when they defeated the Orioles three straight in matches rolled on the Kimberly alleys Tuesday and Wednesday nights. J. Sanderboer was the star, rolling games of 195, 156 and 180.

Sunday afternoon the Olympics No. 2 will bowl the Kimberly stars on the Kimberly alleys. Last Sunday the Kimberly quintet lost three straight on the Olympic alleys and are out to even up in the coming tilt.

The Kimberly Clark Company Blue Moons have started hitting their stride and are rolling large scores consistently. Next Wednesday night the Blue Moons will invade Appleton to battle the Olympics. A battle royal is expected.

KAUKAUNA SQUAD TO PLAY AT MARINETTE

Menominee—Town city football fans will see their last home game of the season at the Marinette Athletic park Sunday afternoon when the heavy Kaukauna team comes here to do battle with the Lauerma bunch. Kaukauna comes up to maintain the record it established in the past two seasons by not suffering a single defeat.

It was after long negotiations that Manager Lemieux was able to book the Badger outfit for a game. Kaukauna has been playing in fast company and wasn't willing to ditch with the Lauerma crew until the manager went down there was well satisfied that these two cities had a real football squad. Sunday's game against Stambaugh proved this fact.

The Twins are all in first class condition as a result of their skirmish on the snow covered field at Norway last Sunday and are anxious to get back to hard work and score some points after a week of practice.

The game Sunday will start at 2 o'clock instead of 2:30 to enable the visiting team to return home on the first evening train. That fact coupled with the darkness which has been up setting games this late in the season prompted the managers to agree on an early start.

CAGING NEWS

Two Rivers—The Bent Basketball team under the management of E. M. Johnson will invade Two Rivers Friday night for a game with "Doc" Deimore's quintet.

Who's Greatest Player?

JOHN THOMAS

BY BILLY EVANS

Cambridge, Mass.—Who is the most valuable back, John Thomas of Chicago or George Owen of Harvard? Last year George Owen was universally picked for the All-America by every expert on football in the country. By a majority he was picked as the most valuable player on the gridiron.

One of the things for which Owen is noted is ability to plunge through the line. The greatest line plunger in the game was the opinion freely expressed last year.

When Princeton played Chicago a dozen of the leading eastern experts saw John Thomas of Chicago in action. Thomas was a great plunging back last year but the Thomas of this year is a much improved player.

SCORED THREE TOUCHDOWNS—Thomas scored Chicago's three touchdowns against Princeton. That in itself is a remarkable feat. He scored the three touchdowns through his own individual brilliancy plus excellent help from his line.

The greatest exhibition of one-man football in the history of the game, was the consensus of the eastern experts. They frankly admitted that Owen alone compared with him in that particular department of play.

Who is the greatest plunging back in the country? I would say John Thomas of Chicago.

Who is the more valuable player, John Thomas of Chicago or George Owen of Harvard? I would say George Owen without much hesitation.

THOMAS IS A SPECIALIST—Thomas is a wonder. He is a line crusher if there ever was one. How ever, Thomas is more of a specialist—a plunging back. He does that line of play a little better than any other.

On the other hand George Owen of Harvard is very versatile. He ranks right close to Thomas as a line plunger, but in addition he can do everything else equally well.

Owen is a wonderful open field runner. He travels hard and fast and is an mighty tough man to down. He is an excellent punter and can drop or place kick with remarkable precision. He also can throw or receive the forward pass equally well. When it comes to offensive interference he takes his hat off to no one.

Owen is unquestionably one of the greatest all-round performers the game has seen in years. The Princeton line, however, will tell the world that no one crushes through like John Thomas of Chicago.

PLAN MANY NEW CENTERS FOR BOY SCOUT TRAINING

Program of Expansion Including Campaign in February Announced

By The Associated Press

New York—The National Council of the Boy Scouts of America, carrying out its program of expansion, has announced its purpose of opening four big national centers for the expert training of scout executives.

Immediate plans are on foot to establish the first of these centers near New York, and the council is already seeking ground for that purpose. It is hoped to establish other centers, probably one in the middle west, one in the far west and one in the south. This "headquarters in the field" will furnish an opportunity to concentrate experimental work as well as furnish an excellent training center, especially for courses in "How to Train Scoutmasters." If it is not practicable to bring the executives to the centers for training along these lines, it will be possible to move the head faculty to different parts of the country.

The scout executive is the salaried official in a big city, or community, who makes scouting his business, and directs the volunteer leadership movement. For many years there have been available in different parts of the country, various training courses for scoutmasters. The scoutmaster is the volunteer leader who takes charge of a unit called a troop.

Mortimer L. Schiff, who has served as vice president of the National council, has recently been appointed international commissioner of the organization. He will devote his time to the international affairs of the Boy Scouts.

Since the beginning of scouting in this country over twelve years ago, a total of 4,777 eagle badges, the highest rank in scouting, have been issued. Of this number 1,477 have been allotted since the first of the present year.

MANY WIN HONORS

It is considered remarkable that such a large proportion of these marks of distinction should have been given out in the past 10 months. In order to attain this much coveted eagle badge the scout begins as a tenderfoot and climbs up the ladder one rung at a time until he becomes a second class, and then a first class scout. It is at this point that the boy begins to do his real climbing which calls for training along special lines. After he is a first class scout, he may become a life scout and then a star scout, and then comes the highest rank, which is eagle. Eleven of the merit badges the scout must obtain to become an eagle are specifically in the fields of first aid, life saving, personal health, public health, cooking, camping, civics, bird study, path finding, pioneering, and athletics or physical development.

From now until next February the scout organization will conduct a campaign for more members. It is hoped to increase the enrollment by 100,000 scouts, or 25 per cent of the present membership.

FIELDS AND BACHMANN DEFEAT REHFELDT, JABAS

Fields and Bachmann defeated Rehfeldt and Jabas in the match Thursday night in the Appleton Pocket Billiard tournament conducted at the Cair and Hansen tables. The score was 100 to 53.

Clarence Schroeder and Joseph Weyenberg substitutes have been delivering mail this week on rural routes 3 and 6 in place of Carrers George Grimmer and A. J. Fetting.

PLAYS DETECTIVE; GETS 4 'FLEECERS'

Hale Center, Tex.—As a free lance detective and criminal chaser, J. Frank Norfleet is in a class all by himself.

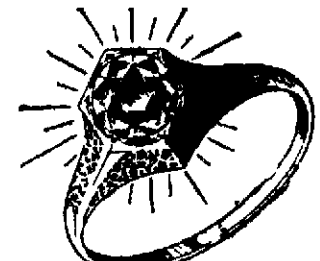

At rare intervals, when he returns to his ranch home 10 miles west of here, Norfleet talks of the adventures he has had since he took up the trail of a gang of confidence men who fleeced him out of $45,000 in Dallas in 1919.

Norfleet has been a wanderer since that experience. He has left his ranch to the management of his wife and their son, Peter.

In his pursuit of the men, who he said swindled him, Norfleet has traveled more than 100,000 miles and spent nearly $15,000. His chase has led him far into Mexico and Central America, all over Cuba, across Canada and into many parts of the United States.

He has landed four of the five men he has been seeking. The fifth Norfleet is confident he will soon run to earth. During his search, he was instrumental in rounding up 33 alleged confidence workers in Denver.

AMERICAN SPEED IN BOXING SHOCK TO FRENCH FANS

Boquet Of Flowers Presented To Fighter When He Quits Battle

Berlin—Boxing has become so popular in Germany that the American system of matinee programs has been adopted. Some 10,000 "fans" crowded the Sports Palace at each of two recent hills, and it was stated the demand would have been even greater had it not been for the fact that the bouts were staged in the evening and many suburbanites were kept away by the difficulty of getting midnight trains home.

Americans here are interested in the outcome of a challenge which Hans Breitenstraeter, Germany's heavyweight champion, had lodged with an American boxer, Samson, who provided the sensation of the evening in his Berlin debut recently. Samson is reputed to have been a sparring partner of Jack Dempsey, and to have made good showings against such fighters as Tom Gibbons and "Kid" Norfolk.

CHALLENGES WINNER

Samson surprised the spectators by showing a speed and an aggressiveness greatly contrasting with the sluggish maneuvers of the native talent. Although twenty pounds lighter than Hugo Podzuhn (175), a Bavarian of considerable ring experience in Germany, the American knocked his opponent down so often in the two opening rounds that the latter's seconds saved their fighter from the other eight rounds by throwing in the towel. Breitenstraeter, who was at the ringside immediately issued a challenge to the winner and it was accepted.

JIM MCMILLEN

After Fielding H. Yost of Michigan had seen Jim McMillen, Illinois' left guard perform against Wisconsin in the famous game whereby Illinois tomahawked the Badgers 3 to 0, he said this:

"McMillen is certainly the best guard in the conference—and probably the best one in the United States."

Jim McMillen is a big lad of 200 pounds, who came from Grays Lake, a little town in northern Illinois. He managed to win his letters on the Illinois varsity in 1921, but didn't set the world on fire.

This year Jim came out determined to make good or know the reason why his performance against Iowa when the fighting Illini played the conquerors of Yale to a standstill was little less than sensational. Time and time again he broke through the Hawkeye line and tackled Locke and Parkin in their tracks. Against Wisconsin he was often the nemesis of the fleet Rollie Williams.

McMillen often beats the ends down the field on punts. He's a fighter from start to finish and never has to leave a game before the final whistle.

about seven hundred feet and can be repaired for some time. The railway connection with Delhi also has been cut. The Lucknow road is still impassable in many places, and no communication is possible with outlying villages.

Large supplies of food, sent by the citizens of Cawnpore, have helped to relieve the distress.

BEG PARDON

The Post-Crescent erroneously stated on Thursday that L. C. Wichmann has been in business without a partner for the last eight years. Mr. Wichmann says Frank Hoh has been in the partnership for the last ten years and that Joseph Loegel and L. J. Smith also are partners in the business. Mr. Hoh has been connected with the firm for twenty years.

MERCHANTS STUDY CITY PROBLEMS AT DINNER-MEETING

Zoning, Parking Laws And C. Of C. Activities Discussed By Speakers

The program following the banquet held in the Convention room of the Sherman house Thursday evening by the retail division of the chamber of commerce was so weighty and elaborate, that it was a real task for John H. Neiler, toastmaster, to steer it through to a timely close. He succeeded, however, without eliminating or adding any part of it. Yet members expressed the wish that these meetings be held more frequently in order to do justice to the subjects treated.

Community singing led by Carl McKee who also sang several solos, was included in the program. Addresses by Leonard S. Smith, planning engineer, Joseph H. Langeberg, chief of police, T. Prim John B. Diederich, Miss Mabel Shiley, Hugh G. Corbett, Miss Mildred Hutchison, H. L. Post, E. A. Schmalz and Joseph D. Steele, general discussion of the topics, stereoscopic slides on city planning and zoning and a sketch presented by Harold C. Tunison, Hugh G. Corbett, H. L. Post and Gerald S. Galpin made the program.

Professor Smith presented in a graphic way the need and scope of city zoning. By means of the stereoscopic slides he showed how Appleton is constantly changing, showed the change in traffic conditions as a result of the decrease of horse-drawn vehicles and the increase of motor vehicles, pointed to the rapidly growing population and the westward growth of the city, he explained the arterial highway system.

In advocating the construction of more parks and the improvement of existing ones, Mr. Smith said it is possible to make Appleton with its wonderful advantages, the most beautiful city in the world. Existing in England a city of similar physical makeup, has made use of its opportunities, he said.

The recently enacted bus ordinance and a proposed parking ordinance were warmly supported by Mr. Langeberg. While the bus ordinance does not provide all that some of the men wanted, he declared, it has at least helped to relieve congestion on the principal business streets, divided the transportation schedule and provided double service. A parking ordinance is the next thing that is needed. The regulated parking has made a private garage of a public highway, he said. A survey conducted among business men shows that 60 out of 64 merchants favor a parking limit of one hour in the city.

Chief Frank deparaged the parking ordinance, believing that it would in fact handicap upon the farmers from whom the business men draw a good share of their trade. He expressed himself in favor of arterial highways of legislation that would relieve congestion in Appleton and Collegeville which, he asserted, is the fastest corner in the city. Turning to the left on downtown street corners should be prohibited, he said.

A subject that is a very delicate one for all merchants was tactfully handled by Mr. Diederich. The subject assigned him was Schenck's, Collegeville's failure to the many appeals for donations and advertising, he said that while business men in general are very willing to support worthy enterprises, they believe that there should be a limit to subscriptions and that it is unfair to be coerced into subscribing.

$10,000 SAVED
Miss Shiley, assistant to Secretary Corbett of the chamber of commerce, reminded the members of the committee appointed to investigate the claims of scholars. By this method, the committee saved the merchants more than $10,000 last year. Refusal to subscribe for any project not having the official endorsement of the committee would be of advantage to the merchants it was pointed out.

The need of training for salesmanship and what has been accomplished among these lines was presented by Mr. Post. Salesmanship, he declared, is a profession, the requirement for which being a natural aptitude and a fairly good education. Training of reserves or future salesmen and women is of great concern to the merchant. Salesmanship cannot be mastered in the high school or business college, he pointed out, but is acquired largely through practical training in stores. The practical end of salesmanship training, he said, has been made possible through cooperation of local educators with the merchants.

The functions of the Merchants credit bureau were explained by Secretary Corbett and Miss Hutchison. Members were asked to finance this service a clearing house of information relating to credits. Only by cooperation or giving as much information as they demand, can they derive full benefit of it. Mr. Corbett said, Miss Hutchison said that 16,000 credit cards are on record in the bureau, but that there were only 181 inquiries last month.

Mr. Schmalz reviewed some of the achievements of the retail division in the last two years and outlined aims for the future. Among the latter he enumerated protection of fruit merchants, housing for a community building, provision of street drinking fountains, enforcement of the anti-light laws, improved advertising provision of checking rooms, construction of billboards, arrangements for more parking space.

Means of coping with the Christmas rush was discussed by Mr. Steele, who urged uniformity in the matter of keeping stores open Christmas week before Christmas. A plan should be agreed upon, he said, by the merchants, he said, and then well advertised outside the city.

In the discussion of miscellaneous subjects following the address, members expressed regret over the lack of fitting Armistice day observance. Postmaster Zuehlke urged early Christmas mailing and Mr. Post asked everybody to boost from now on for the Appleton Beatrice football game Thanksgiving day.

Much amusement was furnished through the presentation of a skit, "The Newspaper and the Retailer," in which the Post-Crescent was put on trial and finally vindicated.

Mr. Tunison and Secretary Corbett impersonated two jockey drygoods merchants who had resorted to questionable advertising. They received a visit from Messrs. Post and Galpin who reprimanded them gently for their form of advertising. A heated dispute finally resulted in an amicable victory for the vigilance committee.

The discussion finally shifted to a criticism of the Post-Crescent because of its purported high advertising rates. An investigation by the characters in the sketch revealed that the rates are much lower than those of most papers in cities of this size, whose circulation was much less.

Was Poor With Ten Million Ruble Salary

Ten million rubles per month was the amount of salary agreed by Mrs. Joseph Mueller of Moscow, Russia, before she left for Appleton to join her husband after a separation of eight years. With this apparently magnificent remuneration she could purchase only the most ordinary pair of shoes. A pair of rubles cost 1-500,000 rubles. Before leaving for America it cost her 5,000,000 rubles to have her eyes tested. The government stamps on her transportation papers cost 22,000,000 rubles.

Prior to 1914 when war was declared two rubles were worth a dollar in United States money, but they now have very little value. When conditions were normal rubles were issued in small denominations, but now they are turned out by the government in denominations of five, ten and twenty millions each.

Need No Pressing Iron After You Travel Now

Modern Luggage Keeps Apparel Neat—Traveling Bags Most Popular

Half a century ago when our grand mother went visiting she packed her trilled hoop skirts and starched, lace-trimmed pantaloons in the then popular telescope and in addition carried with her numerous hand boxes and cases. Needless to say things got rather crushed but traveling always has its disadvantages and a few hours of hated pressing was even then better than staying home.

Then some young Demos with a practical mind and a good deal of common sense presented the public with the round-topped tin trunk which carried more things much more consistently than grandmothers cherished pasteboard and canvas telescope. With this type of luggage mother and maid moved their personal belongings, which when the last handful of rice had been thrown, were nestled in the baggage car as their train slipped out of the home station.

Types of luggage have been changed and improved since then, until now one may have as smart and correct a trunk and traveling bag as costume and what is more, if the costume is smart and nifty the traveling bag simply must be its equal.

The most popular and practical trunk of today is the wardrobe trunk which has numerous drawers and compartments for small articles and best of all a place to hang the dresses and suits so they can't get wrinkled before reaching the end of the journey. A popular use of the wardrobe trunk is in the room where there is very little closet space. Because of the nice way in which these trunks are finished inside, they may be left in the room as a place to keep clothing. For the college girl they are very practical.

The utility trunk is being replaced by the wardrobe trunk for general use. Steamer and tourist trunks for attachment on automobiles are popular for their purpose. The best season for selling trunks is in May and June, about the time most people are beginning to plan their vacations. More traveling bags are sold than any other kind of luggage due possibly to the easiness with which they may be carried and the fact that they really hold all that is necessary for a weekend trip. They are indispensable on long trips when one must have a few things with him in his car seat. Even for shopping tours in the city traveling bags serve as an excellent means for taking purchases home.

Besides the great demand for bags during the entire year they sell in still greater numbers at Christmas time because they make such splendid gifts. The popular colors are black and dark brown.

An interesting fact about luggage is the low price at which it may be bought in comparison with many other things. It is almost the only class of articles nearly back to pre-war price although the material is as good as ever.

Mrs. Ness Gains 15 Pounds And Feels Fine

"I am a well and happy woman today, due entirely to the wonderful power of Tanlac," declared Mrs. Carrie Ness, 115 W. 5th St., Duluth, Minn.

"I can hardly describe how I suffered from stomach trouble. No matter how little I ate I was sure to have terrible smothering spells afterwards. I lived for months on liquids such as milk and soup, but I was constantly nauseated and got so I detested even the sight of food. I was gradually going down hill and I dreaded to think of the future."

"Since taking Tanlac I haven't a sign of my old troubles and I have gained fifteen pounds. I can eat just anything I want and I am cheerful and energetic all day. Tanlac was certainly worth its weight in gold to me."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

TOYLAND NEWS

Have You Written A Letter To Santa Claus?

Yesterday, Santa Claus got letters in his box from as far away as Bear Creek, New London and De Pere. Have you written a letter to him yet? The best letters that Santa Claus receives in our box will be reproduced, like the two below.

Santa Claus letters must be written in ink on white paper — using only one side of a sheet. Santa will answer all of these letters himself. Be sure and put your letter in our mail box right away—

Nov 9 1922

Dear Santa Claus—
I am so glad Christmas is coming. My Brother and I are so anxious for you to come.

Would you be so kind as to bring me a sled, a foot ball and an electric train and a pair of gloves. My little Brother would like a Noah's Ark a little air ship, a whistle and a little dog. But if there are any other little boys and girls that have no toys I will divide.

Good bye
I hope you'll

Dear Santa Claus
Mama says I have been a good little girl since last Christmas and I would like you to bring me a dolly that can say Mama and a table with 2 chairs, and dishes so I can play house with Marion. If I can't have all of them I would like a dolly best of all.

From your little girl

That Children Love To Play With

A boy or girl has to have something to do on a stormy winter day indoors. That's the reason there are so many wonderful games in Toyland.

Dutch Boy and Girl Ten Pins are $1.50 a set. A Crazy Traveler is a spinning top, in a wooden box $1. All sorts of picture puzzles are 25c. Liberty Rings — to throw over a peg, are 50c.

Hop Scotch Tiddely Winks are 75c. Hop-in-the-tub Tiddely Winks are 50c. Pop-over is 75c. Educational spelling boards are 75c and $1.59. Snap is 15c. Rook is 75c. Bunco is 75c. Lotto games are 50c and $1. Checker games are 10c, 29c and 75c. Dominoes are 15c and 50c. Carom rings are 29c. Carom boards are $4.75, $5.75 and $6.75.

Every kind of game is here.

A Wonderful Bowling Alley for a Boy—

Every boy will think this magnetic bowling alley is pretty fine. The alley is made of specially matched wood—with a metal pin-rack at the far end. These pins are held down with magnetic pieces of steel. There is a spring from the top of each pin to the frame. When the bowling ball hits the pin, it jumps up into the frame and you know just how many are "down." $8.50.

Trains That Go, Electrical and Mechanical—

These are the best kind of trains. There are mechanical trains that wind up, and shoot around on a track. The engine and cars are just like real ones. These trains, complete with track, are $1., $1.50, $2.50 to $5.

Electric trains come complete with cars and track at $6.50 to $28. If the boy wants more cars on the train—extra ones are 50c.

Transformers for use with electric trains are $3.50 to $7.50. You boys must see the big train that is running on a track in our toy section—it has a station, signals, and everything that a railroad uses.

Toyland Has Many New-Comers This Week

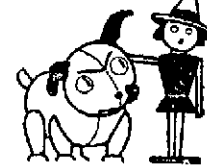

Toyland has been excited all week over the arrival of so many new toys. You know how it is when new families move in — it takes so long to get "settled." A whole parade of animal banks came Monday and—

The Tinker Family is Here

You know the Tinkers are very queer wooden people. They do the funniest sort of things. Now there's Miss Siren Tinker — all made of wooden balls. She slips all around when you pick her up. Tom Tinker is made the same way. (59c) The two Whirley Tinkers are on wheels, and keep turning around and around all the time ($1.29) Choo Choo Tinker is a train (98c) — and Follow-me Tinker turns over and over but always follows you (75c).

Bright colored Tinker Beads are 98c.

Tinker Toy Builder sets, in cylindrical box are 75c. This is the complete Tinker family.

Little Girls Can "Keep House"

Let's play "house keeping" — here is everything to do it with. There are china tea sets from Germany and Japan, in pretty patterns. (48c, $1.29, $1.69, $1.75, $2.39 and $3.)

Then you want a cooking set. Tiny pots and pans of granite will wear just like mothers. (1.69 and $2.29) Pretty wicker doll furniture, in four piece sets will furnish the living room. ($1.19 and $4.75.)

When dolly's clothes are dirty — just get a tub and wash them. A wash day outfit includes tub and boards and drying rack, etc. (59c.)

Woolenine laundry sets are $1.19 to $3.19. Sad Irons are 25c and 50c. Small carpet sweepers — 29c and 48c.

When Dolly Can't Ride—Buy Her a Carriage

If dolly can't ride a horse — she will have to have a carriage. Very few dolls like to ride in anything else. There are wonderful carriages in Toyland for dolls. Regular reed carriages, like real babies use; beautiful perambulators of wood with leather lining.

Some of the doll cabs have frosted colors on the outside, and they are lined with the finest and softest materials inside. Every little girl should see them at once — before many are sold.

Reed and grass carriages are $1.19, $6.50, $8, and $12. Perambulators are $3.98 and upwards. Doll businesses of reed $5.75 and $7.95.

One Counter is a Whole Band

The first counter by the elevator is a band and an orchestra, and just every kind of a musical thing. Of course there are all sorts of drums — you remember what happened to them in the parade (39c, 48c, 79c, 98c, $1.48, $1.75, $2.79 and $7.50.)

And you should see the different kinds of horns. There are cornets, trombones, bugles, saxophones, and saxophones. Four or five boys could get up a regular band with these horns.
